Dear Brother:-

I am contemplating the establishment of a farm journal, to be issued weekly, and to be, in every respect, a high class publication, scholarly, scientific, practical and dignified.

Much of the writing I can do myself, but I need, as associate editor, a man who possesses a scientific education, coupled with practical knowledge and experience in all kinds of farm work; in short an all round scientific agricultural writer.

Can you point me to the right man? If so I would consider it a great favor. Kindly regard this as confidential, and drop me a line naming the person you would recommend, if one occurs to you.

Your friend and brother,

B F CUMMINGS.
