Six-Week Entrepreneurship Minor Offered Summer 2013

In summer semester 2013, the Jon M. Huntsman School of Business will offer students a new opportunity to earn an entrepreneurship minor in just six weeks.

Six two-credit classes are offered, and students will identify a business opportunity to develop throughout the six-week period.

The classes include new venture fundamentals, management, marketing, financing, planning, and social responsibility. These courses will guide students in learning to identify and develop new products and services; start, launch, and manage a new business venture; and develop entrepreneurial leadership skills.

The minor will begin May 6, 2013 and end June 10, 2013.

More information about the unique curriculum and the course can be found on the entrepreneurship minor webpage.
