4-2-2010

Family Support Summit Connects People With the Services They Need

Center for Persons With Disabilities

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.usu.edu/cpd_blog

Recommended Citation
https://digitalcommons.usu.edu/cpd_blog/163

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Center for Persons with Disabilities at DigitalCommons@USU. It has been accepted for inclusion in Blog Posts by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@USU. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@usu.edu.
FAMILY SUPPORT SUMMIT CONNECTS PEOPLE WITH THE SERVICES THEY NEED

April 2, 2010 by JoLynne Lyon

The CPD’s Military Family Support 360 Project had a big day this week, as it welcomed families and service providers to a summit where they could share information.

The Military Family Support Summit took place at Hill Air Force Base in Clearfield, Utah, offering information for the military families of children with disabilities. In addition to holding the summit, the Military Family Support 360 Project will provide a single point of contact for families who typically move six or more times during a child’s school years. The project is a joint effort between Hill Air Force Base and the CPD at Utah State University, and it will focus on connecting military families with special needs to existing services.

Recent articles on the Deseret News and the Ogden Standard-Examiner highlight the event.