NBC's Today Weekend Show Will Feature the Car That Can Be Driven by the Blind

Center for Persons With Disabilities

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.usu.edu/cpd_blog

Recommended Citation
https://digitalcommons.usu.edu/cpd_blog/314
NBC'S TODAY WEEKEND SHOW WILL FEATURE THE CAR THAT CAN BE DRIVEN BY THE BLIND

March 4, 2011 by JoLynne Lyon

The car developed through the National Federation of the Blind's Blind Driver challenge will appear on NBC's Today Weekend show on Sunday, March 6. According to KSL's local listings, the news program will begin at 7 a.m.

The CPD’s Sachin Pavithran also serves on the NFB research and development committee—which made him one of a team of people who gave input on the car’s design. They helped a team of students from Virginia Tech to know which elements of design would and would not work in a car driven by a blind person.

Sachin is the CPD’s assistive technology specialist and law and policy coordinator.

We have written about the car on our blog and in our newsletter—now it will be covered on national news. Tune in if you can!