3-16-2011

Family Support Is Alive and Well in Utah

Center for Persons With Disabilities

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.usu.edu/cpd_blog

Recommended Citation

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Center for Persons with Disabilities at DigitalCommons@USU. It has been accepted for inclusion in Blog Posts by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@USU. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@usu.edu.
FAMILY SUPPORT IS ALIVE AND WELL IN UTAH

March 16, 2011 by cpherson

One of the greatest needs of parents who have children with disabilities is to recognize that they are not alone in this journey-- that there are others who are going through many of the same challenges that they are. Another great need is to be aware of the services and resources that their child needs.

Parents will have both of these needs met when they attend the 2011 Family Links Conference being held on March 25-26, at the Murray High School, 5440 South State Street in Murray, Utah.

Through keynote speakers and breakout sessions, participants will learn techniques and tips for working with their family member with a disability from other parents and leading professionals. The annual exhibitor fairs provide participants with an opportunity to learn about resources in the community as well as make invaluable connections.

The Utah Family Links Conference is co-sponsored by the Utah State Office of Education, Utah Developmental Disabilities Council, Utah Parent Center, Utah Family Voices, and the Murray School District.

More information and registration is available online.