Commencement Speaker Profiles

Breanne Yamauchi – Valedictorian

Breanne Yamauchi was raised in Soda Springs, Idaho and is a third-generation Aggie.

During her time at Utah State, Breanne has been anything but passive. While two torn ACL injuries kept her from participating in collegiate sports, Breanne’s go-getter personality opened up doors that have been instrumental in becoming who she is today. She has enjoyed being an ambassador for the Huntsman School of Business, a member of the A-Team, and participating in the USU Service Steering Committee. She enjoys mentoring young Aggies and promoting “the greatest university ever.” Amid her years of college, Breanne served a mission in Tokyo, Japan for The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and received a minor in Japanese. After her mission, she served as a President for the LDS Institute and was able to participate in several internships that have propelled her future career, her favorite internship being with Fortune 500 company, RR Donnelley.
Breanne is graduating with a duel major in marketing and business administration. She values her time here in Cache Valley and is grateful to the many professors, administrators, and students who have influenced her life.
