EXPERIMENT STATION SERVICE PROJECT UPDATE AND ANNUAL REPORT, 2007

Project Number: UTA 686
Project Title: Economics Research Institute
Project Leader: Dee Von Bailey

The objectives of this project have not changed from last year.

ANNUAL REPORT

1. Plan of Work for 2008

Publications—It is anticipated that faculty associated with the ERI will publish at least 30 refereed manuscripts during 2008. The ERI will make a more concerted effort to ensure that all manuscripts submitted for publication are considered for inclusion in the ERI Study Papers series and that abstracts of the ERI Study Paper manuscripts are posted on the Economics Department Internet site.

Conference Presentations, Symposia, Seminars, and Workshops—It is anticipated that faculty associated with the ERI will present at least 25 invited papers at regional, national, or international conferences during 2008. It is expected that the Economics Department Research Committee will arrange for three seminars featuring prominent scholars who will introduce methodological innovations or foster collaborative research opportunities.

Sponsored Research—Extramural funds are crucial for maintenance and expansion of the Department’s graduate programs. It is expected that faculty will prepare and submit at least 25 proposals for extramural funding during 2008.

Graduate Student Research—Graduate students provide valuable support for faculty research projects. First year students provide labor necessary to data collection and data exploration associated with applied projects. Advanced students can be supervised in estimations and analyses that fulfill thesis requirements and to contribute to larger research undertakings. We anticipate providing about 10 PhD and 10 MS student stipends with a combination of ERI and extramural funds during 2008. No new Ph. D. students will be admitted to the program for fall 2008. The reason for this is the continued uncertainty regarding curriculum and faculty teaching responsibilities for Ph. D. courses when a split in the department into business and agricultural united is completed.

See attached.

3. Summary of Major Accomplishments During 2007

The Plan of Work for 2007 established research publication goals of at least 30 refereed publications and 30 ERI Study Papers. During 2007, economics faculty had 16 refereed publications and 15 manuscripts accepted for refereed publication in 2007; and 5 books, book chapters and other refereed manuscripts published. In addition, faculty prepared 4 ERI Study Papers and 6 technical memoranda, reports, and other publications. Faculty and students associated with the ERI currently have 18 manuscripts undergoing journal review.

The Plan of Work for 2007 set dissemination/professionalpresentation goals of 25 invited or selected papers at professional meetings, and an active department seminar series involving faculty and invited speakers. Economics faculty and students made 34 presentations at Regional, National, and International Conferences.
The Plan of Work for 2007 set a goal that ERI faculty would prepare and submit at least 25 proposals for extramural funding. During 2007, the Economics faculty participated on 24 separate sponsored research projects with total funding of $4,352,870.

During 2007, faculty participation on 16 PhD and 35 Master’s committees was supported with a combination of ERI project funds and funding from sponsored research projects associated with the ERI. These students were assigned to work on UAES projects or other sponsored research projects.

Abstract—The research activities described in this document were supported by the Utah State University Economics Research Institute in 2007. The Economics Research Institute was founded in 1965 to provide training opportunities for graduate students and to assist in the solution of local, regional, and national economic problems. UAES has provided ongoing support for the ERI since 1972 under project number UTA-686. The project has provided the Department of Economics with resources to search out new developments in economics to analyze new and complex issues in public and private decision making processes. Boldface type is used to identify Utah State University Economics Department faculty and specialists; student names are underlined.
