Salt Lake City
May 5, 1904.

Prof. W. J. Burr,
Dear Sir,

I did not get your letter of May 3 until this morning or I would have answered it in my letter of yesterday. I have received Prof. Kilwin letter and think I should find his work very pleasant to continue. With regard to the compensation, I think I should receive from $12.00 to $15.00, but the conditions in which I am to come to

The college would also have much influence in deciding whether to accept the position. I should like the grade of assistant professor as if I am to substitute for two years, it will be much easier for me to get a position after it, if I have that professional rank. Also Prof. Wilcox said that at his return he didn't care whether he resumed the work in modern languages or not, as he was more a General utility man than a specialist; and so the possibility of a permanent position and my professional rank would perhaps make up for what I might consider present shortcomings in the way of salary. Please let me know about these two points and what salary you can offer me and I will let you know my decision very soon afterwards.

Sincerely yours,
Frank R. Arnold.
