Athletics

From all prospects thus far, this year is going to be a championship year for athletics at the College. Never before in the history of the institution has such college enthusiasm been displayed the first week of school. What a difference to have eight of the old team back for the first practice, as compared with former years when there were at the most only one or two.

At the first practice twenty-three men were dressed ready to begin the season's work. On the first team all of last year's back field were present and most of the back field for the second team. This made two full teams to begin active work.

The foot-ball field is in good shape, having been cleared of all stubble and rocks. Later on the canvass fence will be put up so as to have secret practice.

For the first time in years are we able to publish the foot-ball schedule for the season. Instead of a majority of small games as in the past there are to be five big college games.

Many of the students who are too young or light to make the team last year can be seen most any day down in the dairy getting weighed to see how much heavier they have become, thus calculating their chances for making the team.

Edward Brossard, the big foot-ball captain, is all smiles with the prospects for the season. He has increased in weight and now clips the two hundred pound mark. He can be recognized by all new students playing his old position of full back on the first team. It wouldn't be nice to speak about what he has been doing this summer, but he is the same husky athlete all the same.

"Mike" Andrews, the great smashing half-back, is still at his old position of left half. "Mike" has been farming all summer and feels like a Goliath, and is overflowing with foot ball expectation.

"Bill" Frew is as big and fast as ever and is in excellent shape all summer in a forge shop. Bill is still at his old position at right half-back.

"Arch" Egbert, the small nifty snappy quarter-back, is again behind the line dealing out the ball to the half-backs and making forward passes. "Arch" has also been working on a farm and feels none the worse for having done so.

Vince Cardon, our sturdy right end is back again, after a summer of cow punching and "backing" hay. Last year Vince had the "rep" of not having an end run made around his end.

Ezra McCombs is brown and sunburnt, but still knows how to pass the ball at center. "Mac", like the rest of the bunch, has been doing the farming stunt.

Jack Paddock, left guard for last year, is huskier than he ever was. Thru the first part of the season he rode bronchos and during the latter part stacked hay. He ought to be able to "go some" after a summer like that.

Every one has the same chance. Come out.

THE OUTLOOK.

New Faculty Members and General Changes.

This year promises to be a banner one for the U. A. C. More students are now registered than ever before at so early a date. With the new modern equipment and an able faculty, all points toward a great success.

The changes in the faculty are no less noticeable than other changes enumerated elsewhere in this issue.

The Agricultural and Commercial departments, especially, have added much strength to their already strong faculties. Prominent among the new members are:

Prof. Favor, in the Horticultural Dept., who has charge of some horticulture and botany. He is a graduate of Missouri and was interested in horticulture and botany at the U. of Missouri for five years. He is well pleased with the college and the opportunities this state affords for fruit growing.

Prof. Woodward comes to this institution highly recommended and is already "doing things" in the dairy department. He has been doing dairy work for the government in the Southern States and has achieved quite a reputation in this line. He will also teach some bacteriology.

Prof. Goddard, Accounting and Economics, is a graduate of the State University and bids fair to achieve much here in his line of work this year. He has taught in several schools of the state and last Saturday passed the State Examination in Certified Public Accounting. This indeed explains his capacity in this line for he was one out of two who passed the examination.

Mr. Davis, instructor in typewriting, stenography and penmanship, is a graduate of the Arizona State Normal and has had work through Arizona, Idaho, California, Oregon and Washington. His methods are modern and we feel sure he is the right man in the right place.

Prof. Smith, teaching Zoology I and II, graduated with the degree of B. S. from Purdue University and A. M. from Stanford. He is already meeting with great success among his students and his work is excellent.

Miss Love, instructor in Domestic Science, is well known to old students. Being a graduate of this institution, '05, she is well acquainted with methods and surroundings here. It is certain that she will meet with success in the practical work of which she is in charge.

Prominent among the new members of the Faculty are two Harvard men, Mr. Parker, instructor in Geology, and Mr. Evans, instructor in History. Both are natives of Utah. Mr. Harry C. Parker, a former A. C. student and foot-ball player, finished a four year course in Mining Engineering at Harvard University, getting his degree in 1904. While at Harvard he participated largely in student activities and became conversant with all sides of genuine college life. Since coming west he has been actively engaged in his profession in Utah, Nevada and other surrounding states. He has combined the excellent courses in Geology, given at Harvard, e. g. Geology 4 by Dean Shaler, with years of practical work in the Rocky Mountain region, and his courses in Geology promise to be full of life and vim. Mr. Parker's most striking characteristic is geniality.—a fact which accounts for his many faithful friends wherever he goes.

Mr. I. B. Evans, after finishing his preparatory training at the Ogden High under the supervision of Dr. Thomas, went to Harvard where he has just completed a four year college course. While at Harvard, Mr. Evans paid most attention to History and Government, but the sciences, English and Modern languages, philosophy and education were by no means neglected. In fact, his course was a typical, well balanced college course. Few Utah men of Mr. Evans' age, have made so enviable a record for high and persistent scholarship. He received a great many recognitions of merit e. g. scholarships, membership in fraternities, etc., during his Harvard career. He has the good qualities of a "frat" man: sociability, versatility and broad-mindedness, and we predict for him great success in the teaching profession.

Miss Holmgren, now Assistant Professor of English, and Mr. Greaves, Assistant Professor in Chemistry, need no introduction to the older students. Last year both were on leave of absence, Miss Holmgren specializing in English at Columbia, and Mr. Greaves in Chemistry at the U. of Illinois, where he received his M. S. in June. Both are enthusiastic and faithful teachers.

Mr. Walker, of the class of '08, is now Assistant Chemist in the Station Laboratory.

This year we shall miss the beaming face of Professor Bexell, the portly presence and venerable white hairs of Professor Wm. Peterson, the matronly, elevating presence and influence of Mrs. Mayoock. We shall miss the forceful chapel talks of Professor Robinson, the genial sociability of Professor E. G. Peterson, and the hustling energy of Miss Powell. In the Chemistry Department the masterful sway of Professor Stewart will not be felt this year, and the Art department has half its teaching force in Paris. Fortunately, some of these people come back to us later. All of them are certain of a favored corner in their students' school-day memories.

Alumni Notes.

The following alumni are studying at Eastern universities this year:

Robert Stewart, '02, Professor of Chemistry, A. C. U., specializing in chemistry, working for the degree of Ph. D. at the U. of Illinois, Urbana, Ill.

Elmer G. Peterson, '04, Assistant Professor of Zoology, A. C. U., specializing in bacteriology, working for his master's degree at Cornell University, Ithaca, New York.

Miss Inez Powell, '07, Instructor in Domestic Science, A. C. U., is specializing in her line at Columbia University, N. Y.

Mr. B. F. Riter, Jr., '07, who spent last year studying law at Cornell, is this year registered in the Law School of Columbia University, New York.

In This Form.

All things have a beginning and if progressive, they better themselves, step by step, until at last, if possible, perfection is reached.

STUDENT LIFE, as most other college papers, began in magazine form. At the time of the monthly distribution of the consecutive issues all material was somewhat old and uninteresting, while under the weekly newspaper form more "newsy" news will be obtained. You will be able to secure your "sheet" each Friday morning at room 275.

Student Organization.

In order that the students may become more closely united and that they may in part govern themselves, a Student Body Organization was affected last year and is in a flourishing condition this fall. One chapel period each week is to be turned over to students for business meetings and they in charge of Pres. Carroll will be well conducted. The officers in charge are: Pres. Carroll; vice president, Nan Nibley; Sec., _____; and committeemen Prorer, McNeil and Ballantyne.

The Campus.

Never before has the campus been in so good a shape and never did it look more beautiful. The lawns are well kept up and the flower beds at the main entrance and those elsewhere make highly colored spots of beauty. You may lounge on the lawns and you may admire the flowers, but the latter are not to pick and the former are not to cut paths through. Be a little thoughtful and keep things looking nice.

Greeting.

Most every one upon leaving home for the first time to go to college feels, upon entering the latter, somewhat strange and perhaps lonely. It is human nature and all pass through that stage. The sooner we can overcome this strange feeling the better we feel. The quickest way is to "get acquainted."

To all new students we extend a hearty welcome and hope that they may find in this school that for which they have come; and, further, we sincerely hope that the old students will help the new so that before many days we may all be united as one and work for the betterment of ourselves and our school.

Library Notes.

The library has received as a gift from Prof. Larsen fifteen copies of Garnett's translation of Beowulf, fifteen copies of Cook and Tinker's Translations from Old English Poetry, and fifteen copies of Translations from Old English Prose by the same authors. These books are intended primarily for the use of students in English 6, and are all reserved exclusively for them during their study of the Anglo-Saxon Period.

The list of periodicals is much the same as last year. The following valuable additions should, however, be noted: The Theater, The Musical Courier, The Journal of Political Economy, Ceramic Studio, Lecture Pour Tous, Journal of Comparative Pathology, Journal of Economic Entomology, Annals of Entomological Society of America.

College Buildings.

In Good Shape and all is Ready for Successful Year.

Old students returning this year notice some decided changes in the several college buildings, and new students cannot help but notice how clean and well kept everything appears. The college authorities certainly are to be congratulated upon the immense amount of work accomplished in so short a time as the summer vacation has allowed.

Although few changes have been made in the shops, they have been thoroughly cleaned and are pleasing to the eye. The main building has been renovated from basement to roof and numerous rooms, formerly dingy and poorly arranged, are now made as comfortable as can be expected.
The conservatories have received such changes as beautify and better them considerably. At the barns one is attracted by the cleanliness of each department.
The animals now being put into shape for the State Fair are showing up excellently and some of them look like sure winners.

It is worth any student's time to inspect the buildings. He will become better acquainted with the college as a whole and will be able to instruct any inquiring persons in the right way.
