Anthropology of Art

... A Cultural Understanding of Female Japanese Artists of the Edo Period
Thesis

I believe that because of the Tokugawa Shogunate coming into power, society's ideas of what gender roles should be shifted, which then in turn kept them from having their artwork published the same as men despite their work previously being published throughout Japan's history, and through Japan's future.

Discussion

Supporting Evidence of Thesis

Type-1 Spencerian Selection

  Fear of outside pressures forced internal change.

  Changes affected women artists.
Conclusion

Because Tokugawa rulers closed the borders and selected Neo-Confucianism as their choice of social rule many women artists were lost to history for a long time.
