Prof. Ravenhill Dis- cusses Food Problem

Home Economist Gives Graphic
View of Conditions Facing Country

In order to afford the students of the Utah Agricultural College an opportunity to become acquainted with what those officials at Washington who are most directly concerned in the prosecution of the war think of the present food condition, Student Life has secured the following article from Professor Alice Ravenhill. Prof. Ravenhill has but recently returned from a series of important national meetings held in Washington:

The gravity of the situation is greater than is generally realized by this country, on account of the scarcity of food and the immediate importance of setting free for transport to Europe such foodstuffs as are required, namely: wheat, beef, pork, sugar and butter.

The Food Administration will not allow themselves to doubt that complete and immediate response will meet them in their work on the part of the people. As soon as these facts are common knowledge, they say, response from every individual will be prompt and complete. There has been cause for anxiety, lest for once this country might be too deliberate in its realization of the urgent needs of its allies, and it is but just to say that this anxiety has not yet been entirely relieved.

Those present at the various meetings on the food question which were addressed by Mr. Hoover and others, cannot forget the traces which their faces showed of their experiences in Belgium, France and Poland, "where," said Mr. Walcott, "he had journeyed for 230 miles along a road piled on each side with the bodies of women and children, all dead from starvation." Try to conceive their sufferings and the causes. I had also the advantage of meeting Mrs. Hoover, who described her personal work in Belgium among the refugees and spoke without reserve upon the trouble, destruction and bitter suffering of those innocent people.

At present the Relief Committee is only able to give sufficient food to maintain life, but not to maintain vigor or permit of normal growth. Consequently it is not only the immediate results of sickness and premature death which are to be deplored but the fact that these children who are for so long a period subsisting on quite an inadequate diet, cannot grow up into normal and efficient men and women.

Mr. Hoover spoke of the heroic endurance and ready service of the populations in Great Britain and France, and pointed out that at present no sacrifice is asked of this country. The people are merely called upon to substitute for their normal articles of diet, others which because, they do not carry well, cannot be exported to these destitute people.

In listening to papers upon the question of food substitution given by such great authorities as Professor Graham Lusk, Dr. Raymond Pearl and others we were told with emphasis that it is advantageous to most people to enlarge the ordinary scope of their diet; that actual benefit to the body results from using a wide range of food materials; that the habit of so doing is an evidence of efficiency and adaptability, both of

Samaloff, Russian Tenor, Coming

LYCEUM NUMBER PRESENTS
EXCELLENT MUSICAL

All students who attended the last Lyceum number and enjoyed the high quality of music rendered by the Cherniavsky trio, will be interested to know that our next Lyceum number promises to be another of high standard. On Dec. 20 Leonid Samaloff, the noted Russian operatic tenor will sing for us. His assisting artists are Vivian Holt, prima donna soprano, Lillian Scheinkman, violinist and Lillian Rosedale, pianist. All come highly recommended and students should take advantage of this number which will be one of the Lyceum treats of this year.

Buy War Savings Stamps

PRESIDENT PETERSON URGES
STUDENTS TO ENGAGE IN PATRIOTIC SAVING

Editor of Student Life,
Campus.

Dear Sir:
One of our trustees, Honorable George T. Odell, has been appointed Director for Utah by Secretary McAdoo, of the War Savings work in the State. The War Savings Stamp, which sells to the public at any postoffice or bank and some three hundred thousand stores in the United States during the months of December 1917, and January, 1918, will cost $4.12 and each succeeding month thereafter will cost 1c additional until it reaches $4.23 in December, 1918, but, the moment any one of these stamps costing $4.12 is in the possession of a purchaser it is an obligation on the part of the Government for $5.00 to be paid back January 1, 1923. The difference between the amount paid and the amount received at maturity is interest at 4 percent being compounded quarterly. A great many people will not be able to buy the stamp costing $4.12, and so the Thrift Stamp is provided which sells at any post office or bank for 25 cents and does not bear any interest, and a card is furnished when the first Thrift Stamp is bought to which it can be pasted and when there are sixteen stamps on the card, costing $4.00, then the purchaser can trade it in at the postoffice for one of the first stamps referred to above, costing $4.12 in December and January next.

This appeals to me as a movement which should be brought to the attention of the students through your publication, and I will be very appreciative if you have space to exploit this movement on the part of the government in the interest of greater economy and savings by the people of the nation.

Very truly yours,

E. G. PETERSON,

President.

Farmers' Convention Outlined

Record Breaking Meetings of Farmers and Housekeepers to Study War Time Efficiency

At a meeting of extension workers and other officers of the college held recently, plans were laid for the most ambitious series of farmers' roundups and housekeepers' conferences ever held in Utah. Three big meetings were arranged, one at Richfield to run from January 4 to 19, one at Logan, January 21 to 26, and one at Cedar City, February 4 to 9. These big conventions will be both instructional and inspirational. Week courses will be offered in various lines in which those attending can follow a definite course of instruction of high practical value. In addition, authorities of national and international fame will appear on the program for addresses on vital subjects today.

War needs will determine the subject matter of the three conventions. Increased production and conservation will be particularly stressed. The Extension Division specialists will not be content with presenting to the people of the state the problems now before the country. They will also offer solutions suited to western conditions.

The program is now in the hands of a special set of experts. When complete, it will include most or all of the following subjects: week courses for men, farm tractors, animal diseases, hog production, insect control, plant disease control, feeding livestock, range management, construction of farm buildings, irrigation, grain standardization, crops, soils, bee culture, cement on the farm, farm efficiency; week courses for both men and women, poultry, war gardens, care and repair of automobiles; week courses for women, household bacteriology, home efficiency, home cheese making, renovation of clothing, exhibits including demonstrations in connection with which week courses will be conducted on kitchen equipment, conservation of labor, fuel, and food in the home, food values, and saving of fat. Separate and conjoint addresses will be delivered by national and local authorities on the problems nutritional values of food, human efficiency, fitness of dress, habits and their formation, war foods, measurements in the home. One day of particular interest will be known as Patriotic Day. Addresses by men prominent in state and national affairs will be followed by a review of the cadet battalion of the college.

In characterizing the importance of such gatherings to Utah, President E. G. Peterson declared that this year the college had a direct message to deliver to the people of

"STUB" PETERSON APPOINTED BASKETBALL MANAGER

At a meeting of the Executive committee, held yesterday, "Stubby" Peterson was appointed basketball manager. Both Coach Jensen and Graduate Manager Coburn recommended this popular young athlete as the logical man to govern the management of the basketball team. "Stub" is one of the liveliest students in College, and it is a safe bet to say that there will be some good basketball games staged on our floor this coming season.

Football Squad Banqueted

MRS. HAYBALL GIVES BOYS
CHARMING EVENING

The Utah Aggie football squad finished a successful season last Friday evening at the home of Mrs. H. G. Hayball, a member of the board of trustees. Around a bounteously supplied and beautifully decorated table the boys were welcomed by their hostess as an expression of appreciation for their excellent work as a team. Here, as on similar occasions, the boys showed their supremacy and mastery of the "board" as well as of the Rocky Mountain gridirons. "Stubby" ate just as much as ever and the others were well occupied—both unfailing indications that the "feed" met with high approval. The team has been royally treated this season by its many loyal and enthusiastic supporters, and it is just this which should show results next year and bring other capable athletes to the U. A. C.

Periwiggers Show Patriotism

RECEIPTS FROM FOUR CHARM-
ING PLAYS TO BUY A FLAG

Four one-act plays of excellent merit is the "bill" the Periwig Club will present next Monday night at Nibley Hall. "Sam Average," the wonderful little play that thrilled the audience that saw it on the campus in the fall, will be reproduced along with two of Lord Dunsong's plays: "The Lost Silk Hat," and "The Glittering Gate," and "The Goal," by Henry Arthur Jones. We feel like congratulating ourselves and the Logan public in having an opportunity to see plays of such worth and interest. The Washington Square players or the Portman-ites haven't anything on the Periwiggers when it comes to producing the real thing. Aside from the real interest of the plays and their intrinsic merit (and the good acting we can count on) there's another reason why the students of the college should turn out in a body to see the plays. The Periwiggers are the super-patriots of the school. The receipts of the play will be used to buy a flag for the school. Does it surprise you to know that the only flag we possess is flying from the flag pole at the top of the main building? The Military Department of course, has its full quota of flags—but wouldn't you like to see "Old Glory" permanently placed somewhere in our auditorium? The Periwiggers decided they would like to see it so placed, and the funds from the plays will be used toward that most worthy and patriotic end. Do your bit! Don't forget the time: Monday evening, December 17th, at Nibley Hall.

DEBATING

Preliminary tryouts for the intercollegiate debating teams will be held on Dec. 20, in Room 280, at 2:00 p. m. Speeches may be made on either side of the following question:

Basketball Class Series Ended

OUTLOOK

Every class was well represented at the first basketball workout of the year. The coach made up a class schedule which was completed last Monday, when the Freshies made the Sophs bow to defeat by the score of 25 to 13. The first year men went through their three games without being defeated, and it looks as though the Freshmen would have the largest representation on the first team. The first year men had two complete teams on the floor every night, and everyone was given a chance to show his ability. The Sophomores finished second in the series, losing but one game. Three men especially showed up well from this class. Andy Mohr, Len Andrus, former B. Y. U. star, and Ballif deserve the credit which their class made in the recent series. They are all fast men and are strong on both the offense and defense. The Freshmen boast of a number of the fastest basketball men in the High schools of the state last year. Lolo Spencer, Lester Jarvis, Percy Hanson and Mose Stiefel from the West High school of Salt Lake; Sumison and Clyde, Springville High school, state champions of last year; Jorgensen and Bernston, B. Y. C. stars, and others form a nucleus of a championship aggregation. The upper classmen are not so well represented as the two lower classes, but they may spring a surprise any time before the opening of the basketball season.

Coach Jensen has decided not to force his men to abide by any strict training rules before Christmas holidays, but is desirous of having every man report for practice every night between now and the 21st of the month. When the students return, however, they can expect nothing but hard work thereafter, as it will be necessary to put in some strenuous ticks in order to get into shape by the time the first game is scheduled.

The first practice game of the year will probably be staged at some date before the holidays with one of the High school teams of Salt Lake. Both schools are anxious to get the game, which should attract a large crowd, considering the enthusiasm over athletics surging on the hill.

ANDY MOHR HONORED BY TEAMMATES

Andy Mohr, tackle of this year's championship aggregation, was honored by his team mates recently when he was unanimously elected captain of next year's football team. The election occurred at the recent banquet given by the Be-No Club at Murdoch's. Andy is no doubt the logical man for this very important position. He is a true sport, a fighter, and a real fellow. We congratulate you, Andy, and wish you a world of success next year. Here's for another conference championship!

Government should own and operate the railroads.

Each speaker will be allowed eight minutes in which to prove some point either on the affirmative or negative side of the question.

KLEPTOMANIACS

An important responsibility rests on the Student Body. It is to make things so unpleasant for the few who either think petty thieving is a good joke or else a good way of saving their money, that it will be stamped out. Students who fail to become indignant over such actions as the disappearance of the pennants and banners from the gymnasium after the last Student Body dance are tacitly consenting to such outrages. Remember the sentiments you express on such questions reveals your character very clearly. Public sentiment around the college should hang such offenders as "high as Halam" on a gibbet of shame.

WHERE ARE THE CLUBS?

In former years the college has had a large and varied list of clubs, taking in all activities from travelling to raising potatoes. This year, with the exception of a very few, the clubs have been absolutely dormant. Many have not even organized yet.

The Ag. Club, Commercial Club, Be-No Club, Home Economics Club, Periwig Club and the Benedicts are the only ones of the old organizations yet to show any signs of life. The Tennis Club, organized this fall, has been wide-awake in its line. It carried off a tournament so successfully that one of its members not only won the club and student championship but succeeded in defeating the faculty champion, Prof. Johnson. Why can't other clubs get going? Where is the Ag. Engineering Society, the Mechanic Arts Club, the Chemistry Club, the Camera Club, the Cosmopolitan Club, the Quill Club and the rest? Why not start something?

It is time for the Handball Club to organize. Winter sports should flourish now that football is over. Handball is an excellent game and one that is easy to play. Why couldn't a Swimming Club be organized?

There has been a movement on foot for some time to organize a club for the students of the General Science school. This is needed just as much as an Ag. Club or a Home

Ec. Club.

The French students' club "Le Cercle Francais" is just now beginning to stretch its arms and rub its eyes after a sleep rivaling that of Rip Van Winkle. When it comes to long sleeps, however, Le Cercle Francais has nothing on some other clubs in school, notably the Mechanics Arts Club, if such a one exists now.

The special clubs and those dealing with certain lines of work or play are very beneficial both socially and mentally. They should be flourishing. Are there any students in school qualified to wake persons from sound slumber? Try it on the clubs.—Contributed.

COURSE IN MARKETS AROUSES INTEREST

Great interest is being manifested in the course in the marketing of farm products given by Professor Z. B. Wallin. Professor Wallin, who is an authority on this subject has so outlined the course that it appeals to both the practical farmer and the student of economics. The best methods of selling farm products, considered first from the viewpoint of the consumer, and second, from that of the producer, will be discussed. Municipal markets will be studied, as well as various forms of co-operative selling organizations. Because of the interest being shown in the course, Professor Wallin will accept students for a few days yet.

NEWS FROM CAMP LEWIS

Camps Lewis, Wash., Oct. 21, 1917

Dear Dunc;

As a field for training, Camp Lewis is unrivalled. The camp is located in one of the Washington forests, back a few miles from Puget Sound. A gravelly well drained soil, a diversified and extensive terrain, pure water, absence of flies, mosquitoes and other insect pests, a climate without extremes of heat and cold, and which I am told is more nearly like that of northern France than any other in the United States, makes the location ideal.

A very beautiful spot was selected for the camp site. In the center is a brown expanse of prairie, with the blue of American Lake in the foreground, and snow-clad Mount Tacoma with its green foothills as a picturesque background. The government with its engineers construction and quartermaster departments, sanitary officers, and civilian contractors working under these, has wrought a modern miracle. The camp is in reality a city of considerable size, there being about 50,000 men mobilized here.

The reservation upon which the camp is located comprises an area of about 40,000 acres of land. Almost encircling the outer extremities of this area are located seven or eight rows of large frame buildings which serve as barracks for the new officer's quarters and administration and hospital buildings. Naturally these buildings are so located as to provide a good system of streets and to keep each army unit segregated from all others. Each infantry division or other army unit has its own Y. M. C. A. building and Post Exchange.

The area between the buildings has been cleared and leveled for the parade grounds. It is on these grounds that we continue to tramp for several hours each day.

The life here in the camp, although at times somewhat monotonous, does provide many interesting features. Our work begins at 5:45 a. m. and continues with numerous intermissions until 6 p. m. In reality we have several hours each day for rest and recreation in addition to the evenings which we always have to ourselves. As a matter of fact, I have had more leisure time since I have been here than I have had for a long time.

I occupy my leisure time in studying military tactics and French, reading magazines, and talking with the boys. During the last two weeks I have spent considerable time attempting to master the Semaphore and International Morse signal codes.

Now Dunc, the plain truth is that this life is simply unsurpassed. There is absolutely no worry from one day to another. A few minutes of light physical work are followed by a period of rest. Everything is planned for us. We simply do not have to worry about anything. Our meals, without any effort on our part, are served to us just as regularly as is possible. The only effort required of us is that we go to the mess room for them. In the event that we do not care to do that or any of the other simple duties outlined for us, we are taken to the Guard House and our bread and water is carried to us. What more could any normal individual wish for?

A large number of A. C. boys are here in camp. I see a number of them almost every day. Tom McMullen and Hugh Harvey seem to be progressing very well.

As is to be expected in any aggregation of men such as this, there are to be found all types of men. They range from the lowest hobo to the best educated young men in the country, with all gradations between. There are in this camp several hundred college graduates in the ranks as privates.

Two weeks ago Hugh and I went to Tacoma and Seattle. We made the thirteen mile trip to Tacoma in an automobile. From there we took the boat to Seattle, a distance of forty miles. Tacoma is a town about the size of Salt Lake, while Seattle is about four times as large.

Last week I went to Tacoma with about 10,000 soldiers from the camp to see a football game between a team from the camp and the Washington State College team. The game was a good one, neither team was able to score. Dick Kapple played on the army team. He is considered one of the best players in camp.

I will tell you more about army life when I have learned more about it.

Fraternally,

JACK WRIGHT.

CHANCELLOR STRONG'S ADVICE TO THE STUDENTS OF THE U. OF KANSAS

To the students of the University;

The need for economy and care in expenditures is becoming more evident every day. It will be a great mistake for us, individually or collectively, to fail to foresee the conditions that are certain to confront us.

I trust that the expenditures in our social life may be cut down to the very minimum. I recommend that careful consideration be given to eliminating all expensive formal social activities for the duration of the war, and to putting in their place inexpensive informal functions. What, ever is done, it seems to me necessary that the cost to individuals of all social affairs of the University should be brought down to a negligible amount.

I take this opportunity not only of urging students and faculty to economize in expenditures except in unusual circumstances, but also urging that they exert themselves to the extent of their ability in the war loan campaign, in the Red Cross work, and in any other organized work that has for its purpose the bringing of the war to a speedy and successful close.

PROF. RAVENHILL DISCUSSES FOOD SHORTAGE

people.

I was shown one graphic chart representing a breakfast table. On each plate was the name of one of the allied countries. Those of Belgium, Serbia, Rumania and Armenia were entirely empty. Plates bearing the names of Great Britain and France had small portions of food, whereas that inscribed with the initials U. S. A. was heaped high with breadstuffs.

Very noticeable was the response made in hotels and dining cars to the request of Mr. Hoover that poultry, fish, eggs and beans, be generally substituted for pork and beef. Sugar is served sparingly in most hotels. Corn and rye bread have replaced to an obvious degree the familiar white flour rolls.

The program prepared for the representatives of the Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations at Washington, was both full and valuable.

Amongst other speakers was Dr. Carver, who said with much emphasis once and again that "To spend one cent of one's money for anything that is unnecessary or that will not promote food or efficiency is in reality treason." He explained that to do so is to bid against the government for the service of the men of this country. It is to bid against the farmer who needs the services of the men of this country to produce more food. "Save," he said, "and lend your savings to the government." His opinion was that all the labor, all the money, all the effort of this great nation must be centered on one end "winning the war." Therefore to divert labor into any other channels than those designed to produce raw material or to increase the production of food is an unrecognized but actual form of treason. It is not possible, he said, to carry on business as usual when engaged in a life and death struggle for civilization.

Wonderful reports were given to me of the response to the appeal for the Y. M. C. A. Million Dollar Fund. Twenty-four thousand dollars was raised in five hours at the State College in Iowa and almost as much in the course of one day in Kansas.

All those who have had the advantage of a visit to Washington are aware of the great activity everywhere directed to the prosecution of the war. The city was crowded with representatives of the Army, the Navy, the airmen, while government officers are working early and far into the night in their efforts to keep pace with the pressure of the war work. On all sides one hears of the undertakings of voluntary service in many directions. It is for us, who are able to carry on a life so nearly normal, to testify to our faith in the cause of liberty and justice, by raising ourselves to the necessary sacrifice in the one or two channels of service which are open to us; by the immediate substitution for instance in our diet of the articles we are asked to use; particularly bearing in mind the duty of husbanding our money in order that the government may find it when it needs it to meet the enormous demands we must expect; and by rendering every assistance in our power to the farmers in the production of more food stuffs. We should confirm the President in his confidence that the people of this country will be as one to full the pledges made in their names to the allies who have stood for three years between them and sufferings mercifully beyond our capacity to conceive.

FARMERS' CONVENTION OUTLINED

the state. "The necessity of conventions at which the men and women can be put in direct touch with the momentous problems facing the country and receive both the instruction and the inspiration necessary to a full solution of these problems cannot be over-estimated," said President Peterson. Director of Extension, John T. Caine III, declared that the big problem the conventions must solve was the problem of greater production with less labor. "Canada can show us how to solve this problem," said Professor Caine. "She has already placed 400,000 men in the field, as large a number in proportion to her population as 6,000,000 would be to ours, yet she is constantly increasing her production. We must plan our work carefully, always looking toward greater efficiency of individual effort. Machinery on the farm must help us to solve the labor problem. Much of our round-up work will be directly aimed at this."

The State Irrigation and Drainage Congress will doubtless be given time during Round-up week to present some of their problems to the farmers of Utah.

VALUE depends upon the amount and the quality of service the article gives you—what you get out of it.

You get by far the greatest actual VALUE for your money when you buy a De Laval—BECAUSE it will give you much better and longer SERVICE than any other separator.

From the standpoint of its greater durability alone, the De Laval is the most economical cream separator to buy, and when you also take into consideration its cleaner skimming, easier running, greater capacity and less cost for repairs, the price of the "cheapest" machine on the market is most exorbitant compared with that of the De Laval.
