HIGH SCHOOLS TO DECIDE THEIR SUPERIORITY

FOURTEEN HIGH SCHOOLS SEND REPRESENTATIVES

Now that the teams have played off their inter-division games, and the schools which will be represented in the Tournament have been decided upon, nothing remains to be done but to see that the boys are treated right, during their stay in Logan. The four teams who will compete in this year's Tourney are: Tooele, Box Elder, Branch A. C., and B. Y. U. High School. All four aggregations have been playing stellar basketball throughout their season's schedule, and some great basketball is promised the fans in Logan, who are fortunate enough to secure seats for the tournament.

Besides these teams, the teams from Murray, Lehi, American Fork, Davis, North Cache, South Cache, Ogden, Weber, Kamas and Pocatello, Idaho, will be present at the tournament.

From the present dope sheet, the two southern teams, B. Y. U. and Branch A. C., look to be the strongest, and are picked by critics to be the two contenders for the coveted title. However, the other two contestants have very formidable quintettes and if they get off to a good start, they will make the remaining teams hustle to keep the title from them.

The reception committees have been working hard during the last week or so, and the athletes will be treated right by the Logan students and citizens. Present plans are as follows: Big banquet Saturday, and the Military Ball Saturday night. In addition to these features, a large Student Body rally is planned for Thursday, and efforts are being made to secure the football awards, both sweaters and fobs, by that time, and if these plans materialize the regular award day will take place at that time. It will be a great demonstration for the High School lads, and will give them an opportunity to see just how the A. C. treats its athletes.

The cooperation of the students this week is solicited and everyone is requested to join in the entertainment of the athletes from the various parts of the State.

THE U. A. C.- U. OF U. DEBATE

AGGIES SCORE THIRD VICTORY OVER U.

The A. C. scored a third victory over the University people Friday evening when we secured a 3 to 0 decision in debate.

The question discussed was, "Resolved, That the United States Should Adopt Compulsory Arbitration in All Labor Disputes."

The U. team was composed of Mr. Nielson and Mr. Wickman and Miss Lavon Sharp. The men who secured the unanimous decision against this trio were Arthur Pite, L. H. Hatch and George H. Hansen of the U. A. C.

It is generally conceded that the negative side of this question is most easily supported. If so, it is but more honor to our men, who supported the affirmative.

The speeches were all good. Han-

ALLRED WINNER OF S. OF A. R. MEDAL

TALKS ON "PHASES OF PATRIOTISM" AND WINS SPEECH FEST

A rare treat was in store for the many visitors and students in chapel Wednesday in which the official awarding of the oratorical medal presented by the Utah Society of the Sons of the American Revolution took place. A goodly representation of distinguished members of this society added interest and aided the success of the meeting. It was indeed an opportunity to hear the speeches of the contestants and the remarks by President G. Albert Smith, the Honorable W. Mont Perry and Reverend Lewis who spoke on topics on vital interest to all Americans to show what an important task lies before the people and the heads of this government in these times of crises.

Captain Stephen Abbot was selected by the members of the society to act as chairman of the meeting.

The subjects treated by the contestants were very interesting and appropriately chosen. They were treated well and the contestants on the whole were to be congratulated upon the admirable way in which they handled their subjects and presented them to the audience. It was done in real college style.

J. T. Jarvis spoke upon the "Ideals of Patriotism." He brought out the fact that it is indispensable that national ideals as well as individual ideals exist to be upheld. A very strong plea was made in this speech to rally around the banner of freedom and support the great ideals of democracy for which our country stands. Joseph Reed spoke upon "True Americanism." He showed that real test for true Americanism has been in our times of governmental crises, that the true American is the man who will stand undividedly back of his country in times of stress; and that now such time is here, when not only the welfare of our own country but of the civilized world is at stake and demands extreme sacrifice and manifestation in action of true patriotism. Reed Warnick treated the subject of "Higher Patriotism." That patriotism should be held up as something that stands for the highest ideals of our country and should not be debased to common tangibility was maintained in this speech. He also showed that true patriotism was not the performance of good acts just for the sake of publicity gained by doing them but the real patriotic method is to do deeds that are for country first.

SANTSCHI A MAJOR

Captain Eugene Santschi is now Major Eugene Santschi.

Major Santschi is well known and well liked at the U. A. C. In the first place he is one of our graduates. He played on the football team while a student here and was prominent in other activities. He graduated from West Point and then served in the Philippines and China.

He was at the head of our military department last year and the year before and was very popular here. Student Life tenders congratulations to Major Santschi.

Welcome

To the visiting High School boys every student at the A. C. joins in extending a hearty welcome. Look us over boys. Discover what the A. C. is; what it teaches, what it stands for. If there is anything you want to know, approach any student. He'll be glad to give you a correct line-up on the A. C. Make yourself at home boys and discover the advantages of the College. Then come back next year and help us enjoy them.

IBSEN PLAYS ARE PLEASING TO STUDENTS

FORMER STUDENT IN CAST ADDS
INTEREST

"Hedda Gabler" and the "Master Builder" with Madame Hammer and her excellent company have created an impression on students and the Logan public which will remain for many days to come. The coming of such plays had a healthy influence on the local public, the thinking part of which had grown tired of "soul stirring" Wm. Hart dramas and the like, piffle of our soul entertainers, the "movies."

Regardless of the quality of acting a presentation of something classic at intervals is relished by the thinking part of the public. No doubt there were people present who were bored by the plays even as others have been bored by the lighter productions put on this year. However, their boredom perhaps may be blamed to something other than the plays and the manner in which they were produced.

Nevertheless there is a variance of comment on this point. Some people maintain that Madame Hammer did not live up to her advertised reputation and was nothing extraordinary. Others give her unrestrained praise and herald her as an artist of unusual ability, saying that her marvelous technique and power more than compensated for the admitted handicap of an accent. Most, however, agree that she was better as Hedda Gabler than as Hilda in the "Master Builder" due perhaps to more opportunity in the part.

In the first play there was undoubtedly art in her interpretation, once she got into it. There was, however, an awkwardness in the first act and a consciousness of a certain inadequacy for the part. But as the play wore on this disappeared and Madame Hammer gave to "Hedda" the full power demanded of the part. We felt the bigness and badness of the woman and some of us perhaps felt inclined to shoot her before the end or as Professor Arnold put it "to slap her face." Hedda was good and the minor defects of voice and mannerisms which disappear in true art were not very evident.

In the "Master Builder" the company as a whole was less effective than in "Hedda Gabler." Mr. Brown, who starred in his portrayal of George Tesman, was very ordinary as Ragnar and suggested not at all the brilliant man held down by the indomitable will of the Master Builder. Mr. Hammer as the Master Builder made the second night's performance a success. You felt the strength and power and magnetism of him over the girl Hilda. Hilda herself, however, lacked

AGGIES COP STATE HOOP FLAG

CLASSIC RIVALS SUCCUMB TO BLUE AND WHITE DETERMINATION

MOST THRILLING BATTLE IN THE HISTORY OF THE STATE

The Aggies practically clinched the State Championship and the right to battle Colorado University, winners of the Colorado Conference Title, for the Rocky Mountain Championship, when they trimmed their crimson rivals from the University of Utah last Saturday night by the score of 38 to 31. This was the second defeat administered by the Aggie Farmers, the former game ending 45 to 38; a little larger score, but the same number of points separated the two teams in each game, and shows the relative strength of the two aggregations as they lined up this season. The game was one of the fastest ever seen in the Smart gymnasium, and was without a doubt the fastest game played in Utah this year. Both teams entered the game with grim determination—Utah determined to trim the Aggies in their final game and wind up a good season thereby, and the Aggies equally determined to trim their crimsoned rivals and by so doing add another championship to their list.

"Bobby" Richardson, of the Deseret gymnasium in Salt Lake, and Coach Rynearson, of the L. D. S. U., officiated, and they called the teams together, forbidding the use of any unnecessary rough tactics. The initial whistle blew and the Red and Blue were again mixing it. The passing of the Aggies was superior to that of their opponents, while the basket shooting was a good stand-off. Rudine, Utah's forward, was being followed closely by Mohr, and Jarvis was guarding his man tight, and as a consequence the Aggie forwards and center were able to net six more points than the State Institutioners during the first half. Especially did Nielson do good work. This rangy boy outjumped Stevenson and scored two more field baskets than his rival. Mohr and Jarvis guarded tight, allowing their forwards only two baskets apiece. Spencer was followed closely by Warner, and only netted two counters, both being beautiful long shots from the center of the floor. Sumsion, the little forward, covered the floor well, and shot many pretty field goals from difficult angles. Rudine, although guarded closely by Mohr, probably played the best game for the Utah quint. The guards also, Romney and Warner, played stellar ball throughout.

The first half ended with the score standing 23 to 17 in favor of the Aggies. However, the Utah team stiffened during the last half and held the Aggies to a closer margin. The Aggies outplayed their rivals only one point during the last period.

The officiating was the best seen here this year. The score:

MILITARY BALL IS DRAWING NIGH

GOVERNOR BAMBERGER TO ATTEND AS GUEST OF HONOR

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS TO BE SPECIAL GUESTS

The long looked for Military Ball, the event that is looked forward to throughout the entire school year, will take place next Saturday night. It is very appropriate that a big event of this kind should ring out an old term and usher in the new spring session. Examinations will be over and that will be sufficient reason for celebrating for most of us.

The Military Ball this year promises to be fully up to the standard set in previous years. The committees have worked long and faithfully to make it so; all details necessary in preparations for such a big event have received careful and studious attention from the men in charge. Practically everything is arranged and the cadet officers are now working to perfect any minor details.

One thing that makes the Military Ball such a grand event is the fact that the Governor of the State of Utah and his staff are usually present

AGGIES TO BATTLE BOULDER'S TITLE

UTAH CHAMPS MEET COLORADO CHAMPS—PLACE
UNDECIDED YET

Now that the Aggies have completed their schedule without a defeat and have succeeded in coping their second championship of the present season, they are out after bigger trophies and laurels. The Colorado University, winners of the Colorado state title, will be taken on for a three game series in the near future. The conference officials will probably be called upon to decide the place and time of the interstate series, as it seems that both schools are anxious to invade their rivals' territory, and it is highly probable that an attempt at an agreement between the school officials will result in a squabble.

The Boulder team is anxious to play the games in Utah, while on the other hand the Aggies are equally desirous of taking the trip to Colorado. Two strong arguments that favor the Aggies are: First, the Boulder team made the trip to Utah in the football season, and second, there are many members of this year's championship football team who constitute the basketball squad, and the Colorado public could

THE TERM ENDS

The second term of the school year will end Saturday March 9th. To many of our students this will mean farewells to the college for this year. To those of us who stay it will merely mean the beginning of a new term and new endeavors.

The work of the past term has been successful in every way. Our work has gone smoothly on. The past term has witnessed some brilliant social and athletic victories as well as scholastic triumphs.

It is strongly urged that as many students as possibly can stay for a part or the whole of next term. Don't be in a hurry to discontinue school. If you are not urgently needed at home, remain at school. It will pay you a hundred fold. Our country needs educated men. Continue our school work if you possibly can.

To those of us who will remain for the spring term a warning should be given. Do not shirk. Do not just slide by from day to day in your work. Get in and work with renewed vigor. All the information we get this year may mean victory or defeat for the Allies and our country. Remain at school and remain at work.

THE SERVICE FLAG

The Service Flag presented to the school by the Home Economics girls, should mean more than a snowy banner, banded with crimson and bedecked with three hundred and fifty stars. Those modern Betsy's who planned, designed and made this flag intended that those stars should be symbolical emblems. They intended that it should stand for the individual personalities of the lads who once studied, laughed and fussed in these old halls, but who are now far away in Uncle Sam's cantonments, and thus to remind us of our opportunities and obligations. Each star is a sign of sacrifice, courage, bravery and patriotism. To us it should be a stimulus. It should be a reminder of increased untiring effort, a symbol of things to be achieved. What does it mean to you?

A LETTING DOWN

We have prided ourselves during the last few months, because of the manner in which we've responded to our country's obligations. We've patted ourselves on the backs and felt a surge of conceit because we had given up the path of least resistance to trod the more rocky road. But the recent neglectful carelessness manifested in chapel when our national hymn was being sung, clearly shows that our patriotism has not been entirely sincere, and that through force of habit we have a tendency to surrender to the temptations of the "padded trail."

How are you "doing your bit?" Are you serving in some branch of Uncle Sam's fighting forces? Are you working on the farm or otherwise augmenting the world's food supply? Are you working in the factories or helping in the manufacture of the immense amount of various products needed in carrying to a successful finish this war?

If you are doing none of these things you should help your government by buying Thrift Stamps, Liberty bonds or other things needed in the financing of the war. The United States government needs your help. Before this war is over every man, woman and child in this broad land will have to make personal sacrifices. Better start now by buying Thrift Stamps and thereby probably save yourself sacrifices later. Save your nickels and buy Thrift Stamps. Get them at the President's office.

CHILDISH CONDUCT

Perhaps we are stooping below our dignity in making mention of the outburst of giggles in the gallery at the end of the performance of the "Master Builder." Some people seem to be entirely devoid of a sense of propriety and have to be told what is proper. It would be well if the people who are constantly indulging in their childish tricks could take a course in how to behave in public. We have no direct evidence that the offenders were A. C. students, but pray that they weren't.

JUDGING DEBATES

The general public gradually has come to accept, as the principal test for the comparative efficiency of our universities and colleges, the strength of their respective debating and oratorical teams. It maintains that the prime function of these schools is to educate the people in order to produce a better citizenship and since these teams are so closely allied to this function they represent the best test of the real intellectual status of the different institutions. And as a result when a report goes out that a certain college or university has defeated another institution of similar standing the public adjudges in favor of the victorious school. Whether this attitude is right or not is not the purpose of this article to say, but whether right or wrong the condition exists and we must make the best of it.

In as much as the public has taken this attitude and debating generally has reached this important position, where victory sways the trend of public opinion to a more or less degree, care should be taken in developing good teams. And generally this condition really exists. As a whole the schools do try to produce debating teams which will impress the people correctly.

A great amount of time is spent in preparing efficient teams. A great amount of school work is sacrificed to produce teams that will win. And after all the result lies absolutely in the hands of three judges. If the judges perform their task efficiently then the proper result is given. If not then all the time and sacrifice of both teams comes to naught because the true relation is not shown. And repulsive as it is to us we are forced to believe that the latter condition—inefficient adjudication—sometimes exists. By thus expressing it we do not mean to refer in any way to the individual ability of the admirable men who have been judging debates in the past, but merely to suggest that many little technicalities and principles of debating may in many cases have been forgotten by men who have spent many years in the practical experiences of life where the technology of the great debates of life are not absolutely analogous to intercollegiate debating.

It is the purpose of this article to suggest some things that will, perhaps, remove the serious handicap placed upon the men who undertake the very thankless task of judging debates. In the first place because certain technicalities may have been forgotten we would suggest that a mutual agreement be reached between the contending schools and printed so that the real principles upon which the debate is to be judged can be given to each judge. That a copy of each brief of the opposing side be given to each judge so that it will be possible for him to follow the argument, which in many cases is obscure, and that it has sufficient weight and strength to stand, also to see clearly what is proved and what is not. And then we would have each judge explain his reasons and upon what grounds he passes his judgment in favor of this or that side.

With these instructions as to the basis upon which the debate is to be judged, the assistance of the respective briefs and the caution and deliberation that will be encouraged if the judges express their reasons, we believe much better, more efficient and much squarer results can be obtained in our intercollegiate debates.

AN INJUSTICE TO STUDENTS

It's hard to place the blame, but someone is to blame for the conflict in examination and entertainment in this week's schedule. It is an injustice to the students. The last week of any term is always a strenuous one. Even the best of students have more work to do at that time than at any other. The faculty make it so. Each professor thinks his course is the only course a student is carrying, and loads on work accordingly. Then, under these conditions, those in charge of our social activities have arranged the most strenuous week of the year, consisting of a two night Lyceum number, three night tournament, and the Military Ball for the sixth, and happily the last night. Students not only desire to attend these functions but feel duty bound to do so, regardless of studies or health.

Student sentiment should be so aroused on this occasion that in the future those in charge of entertainments which are to be patronized by students, will appreciate that those who consider being a student, first in the program, must be taken into account.

BE-NO CHAPEL

The Be-No club endeavored to give us a little demonstration of school spirit preceding the U. of U. basketball game on Thursday morning in chapel. Although the audience failed to get the full meaning of all that took place, still the Be-No's should be given credit for having the right spirit in mind whether their demonstration gave true expression of that spirit or not. The rally ended with good success. Eb. and Frank somehow put the fight into their yells and songs in such a way as to end in victory for the U. A. C. over the U. of U. on the following Saturday night.

TOURNAMENT SCHEDULE ARRANGED

President James E. Moss and Secretary-Treasurer C. Oren Wilson, of the State High School association, met yesterday and decided to follow the regular method used in drawing up the schedule of games for the State High Tournament. The following schedule was decided upon: First night, Wednesday, March 6, Smart Gymnasium.

Tooele High School, of Tooele, vs. B. Y. U. High School of Provo.
Branch A. C. of Cedar City vs. Box Elder High School of Brigham City.

Second Night, Thursday, March 7. The winners of the opening games play the opposite losers of previous night's games.

Third night, Friday, March 8. Each team will play the aggregation which they have not yet met.
Saturday noon. Big banquet for the High School boys and guests.
Saturday night. Military Ball.

GRAND PEP FEAST CELEBRATES VICTORY

Our matinee dance last Monday, given to celebrate our victory over the U. was a successful affair. A large number of students were present and a very festive spirit prevailed. The students seemed to be in a mood that makes celebrating easy, as they should after such a victory. Winning a state championship in basketball fully merits a celebration such as was given Monday or an even greater one.

One thing happened, however, that showed an almost too festive spirit on the part of some students. A popular subscription was taken up to buy peanuts to have a "peanut bust." When these peanuts were brought in a mad rush was made for them by some few students and as a result they were scattered hither and yon over the dancing floor, thereby causing many a slip by the dancers. This showed a more or less puerile spirit, not common by any means to college students and happily possessed by few Aggies.

March 12—Doctor Harris in chapel. "Feeding the World."

SOROSIS VAUDEVILLE

How unusual some persons know how to be.

Sorosis, we surely enjoyed the "Vodie". We scarcely knew that such talent existed in the school, and we are beginning to wonder if there might not be some of this same delightful variety in other sororities and frats.

From the time the spliced sheets slid apart in the first act, where you were such pretty little garden dresses up to the moment when you gathered these same sheets again, after the finale, we were pleased.

Miss Martha Carlyle certainly has the "hair raising feat" (feat!) and Edith and Rachel sure make a cute pair,—and that song of Ivy's was most too good for words—a trifle neolithic you know—but original in presentation.

We'll bet that we can guess how you had things fixed in the freaks dance, but we certainly can't imagine a "Rex audience" so well. You made a slight inaccuracy, however, in showing Miss Huntsman and "Pistol," and Allred in the bunch. Because, believe us, if they hadn't enough money to pay for down stairs seats in the Lyric they would have stayed home—pride rules the world.

Your Coon boy and southern girls were simply captivating—and again—we were surely leaning forward during Rachel's little Nature dance. The dramatic coach might pick possibilities from your war play personnel, and finally when your company sang the last act out, the only thing that kept us from tears was the dance.

CHANCE TO GET COMMISSION IN NAVY

President Peterson is in receipt of a communication from the Naval Auxiliary Reserve Board explaining the aims of that board and the necessity for men to join the naval reserve. The communication explains that men between the ages of nineteen and twenty-five who have had the requisite mathematical training to serve as a foundation for the study of technical problems relating to navigation, may enroll in the Naval Auxiliary Reserve with the rating of a quartermaster third class. After this they will be given two months or so of training in seamanship. Those showing proficiency will have a chance to attend the training school for the reserve at Pelham Bay, New York from where they may go out commissioned as ensigns in the Navy. These falling will continue to serve as petty officers with a chance to attend other schools in the future.

The opportunity afforded in the Naval Auxiliary Reserve is comparable with that offered in the R. O. T. C. Students interested should see President Peterson or Captain Abbot immediately.

beginning next Tuesday. This will be the last chance for the men of the present draft to get some knowledge of French before leaving for the training camp.

FRENCH CLUB NOTICE

Le Cercle Francais will meet Friday March 8 at 4:30 p. m. in the Bluebird hall. It is expected that all members will be present.

AGGIES TO BATTLE BOULDER'S TITLE

of a few of the sturdy Aggie athletes.

However there is a slight chance that the school authorities will come to terms, and if so, the series will be staged in either Utah or Colorado within a very short time.

COME ON, STUDENTS, LET'S

FOOTBALL FOR NEXT SEASON

SPRING TRAINING STARTS NEXT WEEK

Coach Jack Watson has started the ball rolling for another Football championship next year. He called a meeting last Monday of all the football prospects in school, and the turnout certainly made our famous coach smile. Last year when such a meeting was called the sum total of twenty five men turned out. This year the number was one hundred and twenty five. Where will we get suits enough? was the question raised by everybody present. Manager Coburn will take care of that, and a whole lot more if necessary.

Coach Watson gave a good talk on athletics and football in particular. The boys were certainly full of pep, and the promises for a championship are certainly bright, with only three of last year champions gone, and a good Freshman team to pick from, as well as a number of promising High School stars, that started at mid-year.

Spring football will commence next week and the ball will be rolling for another championship.

ALLRED, WINNER OF S. OF A. R. MEDAL

triotism." Mr. Allred's treatment of his subject and his presentation of it was very excellent and was deserving of the honor bestowed upon him by the awarding of the medal. His speech was equally up to the high standard of similar medal winners in other years. Many excellent thoughts were presented in this speech. Patriotism is the real builder of nations and it is patriotism that keeps nations alive. Patriotism is the first love one has for his country and the great force which moves one to service that will aid his country. The fact that we are but one of the contenders for democracy was brought out in this speech and that the United States because of its high ideals was in honor bound to fight until the great principles of democracy are safe for all nations. We should guard against false patriotism, Mr. Allred said that true patriotism made Germany great and false patriotism is tearing her to pieces; that autocracy is doomed to perish because it is founded upon the venomous principles of false patriotism. Our Allies were commented upon in a very pleasing and appropriate way. The sacrifices they are making and the true patriotism that is being manifest by these nations was mentioned. Mr. Allred ended by showing that true patriotism was not expressed in the entrance of our country into war but in its many gifts of charity to the needy and that in the great final test the government will be adjudged patriotic because she fought on the fields of battle and gave charitably to help the needy.

The medal was awarded by Mr. D. S. Spencer.

ed the buoyancy of youth, although perhaps she did possess all of its virility to inspire him. A particularly strong scene of the play was that in which the Master Builder recounted his story to Hilda. Opposed to this was the weakness of that between him and the stenographer. The part of Madame Solness was admirably well acted and sustained. She more than played up to her part in the contrast between the virile inspiring Hilda and uninspiring wasted wife. Equally good was Miss Van Volkenburg's interpretation in Hedda Gabler.

A point of especial interest to students in the appearance of the Ibsen players was the presence of Mae Edwards with them. Miss Edwards is an old dramatic star of the college and is a member of the Periw club. She delighted her local admirers by fully living up to her past reputation as a finished portrayer of old woman parts.

WEEKLY BUNK

"Pug" Warner didn't make such a big difference.

As soon as Coach and Mrs. J. W. Watson leave Jumbo will entertain the dirty dozen in the form of a midnight tea.

Wick Stephens is back again and announces that the greenhouse cellar fraternity will keep open house for our visitors.

This week's song is entitled "No matter how high the cost of living goes, writing paper will always remain stationary."

The Be-No tragedy would have been much better if the corpse hadn't moved when Jack was giving his sermon.

Now that the winter term is about over many of the boys will go back to the farms and celluloid collars.

For a taste of the wild range life view the boys from Cedar in their new "puncher" bonnets.

There should have been another medal for the Hon. G. A. S.

Peter Nielsen (janitor of the gymnasium) was doing a little detective work the other day in the gymnasium. It happened when the University basketball team was practicing. He spied Rudine making baskets from all corners of the floor. He got so excited that he called up the coach to be sure and watch No. 5. Mohr watched him instead.

U. A. C.-U. OF U. DEBATE

sen and Hatch were strong in their main speeches and Hatch particularly so in his rebuttal.

Debating seems to have received a decided impulse in the A. C. this year. We bear no particular malice toward the U. students, in fact, we like them very much. But we're tickled whenever we can whip the wearers of red shirts whether on the football field or in basketball or in debate. Three times this year Aggies, we've downed the U.

In Provo the same night our negative team consisting of L. W. Sorenson, Russel Croft and S. L. Ballif were defeated.

Heber Jones and D. G. Taylor debating the affirmative of the question, "Resolved that the Allies, as a condition of peace should demand the return of Alsace-Lorraine to France," met defeat at the hands of Montana State College team at Bozeman on the same evening.

MILITARY BALL IS DRAW- ING NIGH

ent. This, of course, adds distinction and prestige to the ball and makes it stand out from the other big social functions of the year.

Another unique feature is the large attendance of the High School cadets from Salt Lake and Ogden. Then of course there is the drill by our own cadets. All of these things add an atmosphere unique found in few balls.

At the ball Saturday night the U. A. C. cadets will give an exhibition of guard mounting drill. They have worked for some time on this drill and it should be successfully carried out.

The music for the Military Ball will be furnished by the U. A. C. Military band. Our band is rapidly gaining a reputation for furnishing good music and it will outdo itself to keep up its reputation Saturday night.

The decorations will of course be in the national colors and will be made up in all probability of flags. The exact arrangements of the decorations are being worked out now.

Everything is ready for the great-est Military Ball in the history of the Utah Agricultural College. Any one missing this event will miss one of the greatest social functions of the state. Invitations must be presented by everyone not wearing a military suit.

Three Important Reasons For Buying a

NEW DE LAVAL CREAM SEPARATOR At Once

THERE are three very strong reasons for the immediate purchase of an up-to-date De Laval Cream Separator.

In the first place, a new De Laval machine will now save its cost in a few months—in more and better cream and butter and in time saving—at the present very high butter prices and great need of every minute of time.

In the second place, the patriotic duty rests upon every producer of butter-fat to save every ounce of it, and nothing is of greater food value to a nation at war. All European countries are encouraging the sale of the best cream separators in every way possible.

In the third place, railway delays are such that you can't depend upon quick delivery, and if you don't order your De Laval now there is no telling when you can get it. Moreover, the supply of labor and material is uncertain and all last year De Laval deliveries were nearly two months behind.

There was never a time when the immediate purchase of a latest improved De Laval Cream Separator was more important to everyone separating cream, or when it could less wisely be delayed.
