Number 16.

We believe that a policy devoid of factionalism should govern the administration of student body affairs.

We believe that it is the right of the student body to know every procedure of its officers and executive bodies in the exercise of their official duties.

We believe that if the executive committee cannot decide, by use of the ballot, who should occupy student body offices, the decision should rest with the student body.

BASKETBALL

The king of indoor sports now enters the limelight as competition between the three colleges of the state in basketball begins. The college team has only recently completed its triumph into Montana, and has returned with but one goal in mind—to bring the state championship pennant to the halls of the U. A. C.

Basketball is one of the most strenuous sports in which college athletes participate. Not only is endurance the prerequisite of a good basketball player, but speed and the ability to take hard knocks are necessary as well. Confidence, and the ability to do one's best in the close, confined space of the gymnasium with cheering crowds pressing close on to the teams, are essential before victorious teams can be produced.

Eligibility rules are as important as the rigid training rules which prevail among the best basketball players, in fact, the high standards which eligibility rules attempt to maintain have made it necessary to look first at the player's grades, and then at his ability as a hoop performer.

The football players have brought the state championship in their sport to the college; the debaters have brought the second consecutive state championship to the college in forensics; it now remains for the basketball team to bring another championship to the college.

DEBATING

The victory of the debating team last Friday evening brought the second state championship of the year 1923-24 to the Utah Agricultural College. Incidentally the victories Friday evening marked the second consecutive year that the college has held the state debating championship, a feat no other college in the state has accomplished in recent years. These results establish the fact that debating is on a high plane in our institution and that the debaters have been expending every energy in the effort to maintain a high standard of efficiency in this activity. The debating council should receive an important share of the credit for this year's success. They have consistently sacrificed their personal desires and pleasures in order to aid the debaters in every possible way. It is probable that the success of the past two years can be attributed to the very personal interest that faculty members have taken in the question and toward the debaters.

Debating is gradually becoming more popular as a college activity. There was a larger number of students present in the tabernacle Friday night than has ever attended a debate in Logan. The auditorium was completely filled in Provo and an unusual number of spectators were shown at the B. Y. U. due to the untimely support of the student body.

We are proud of our championship. We hope to be as successful in our coming debates this year and annex our third state championship next year.

used in debate. The debaters who won this time. The United States should remove an unjust situation by taking a safe step which we have pleaded ourselves to take.

The U. of U. debaters were all experienced orators. They formed one of the strongest teams the Aggies have ever met. Partridge, captain of their team proved exceedingly good both in his main speech and in rebuttal. The work of Corwell was commendable. Crew also presented a good argument.

The success of the U. of U. was very evident in the fact that many were very finished talks and won the admiration of the audience.

Corwall and Partridge lost to the Aggies last year at Salt Lake, and were consequently very anxious to put over a victory for Utah but they were unable to meet the argument of our own debaters who came back exceptionally strong in rebuttal.

After the debate the university men and the judges met at the Sigma Alpha Fraternity house and spent the remainder of the evening.

REGISTRATION AT B. Y. U.

SHOWS LARGE INCREASE

Total registration at B. Y. U. now numbers 1140 students showing a substantial increase of students since the Christmas holidays. Many new faces are now evident in the halls.

Large Crowd Hears Kansas City Little Symphony Orchestra

Lias Roma And Miss Selinsky Applied For Solos—N. D. Roberts, Conductor, Receives Ovation

The Logan Tabernacle last Monday was filled to the doors during the thirteenth musical program of the season which was given by the Kansas Little Symphony orchestra. The program opened with the "Overture to Mignon" by Thomas. Throughout the whole performance the audience was very enthusiastic in its praise of the perfect harmony in the rhythm and excellent of interpretation.

Conductor N. D. Roberts is a gifted and ingenious leader whose every movement stimulated his audience to maintain his tempo.

"Romance," a solo number by Miss Selinsky, a violinist called forth marked applause for the soloist who is easily recognized as an outstanding artist and also for his masterful pianist, W. G. Clark.

Lias Roma, the dramatic soprano of the company drew unstinted applause with her solo in "Lullaby" which was the aria, "Viva Carlo, Viva D'Amore" from "La Traviata" by Puccini. As an encore she sang, "I Love You."

The Logan Lyceum association announced that the next musical program shown by the U. A. C. student body was 75 percent of the reserved seats were sold to U. A. C. students. Another audition will give the next Lyceum on February 17 at the Logan Tabernacle.

ATTORNEY DAVID J. WILSON SPEAKS IN CHAPEL MON

Pointing to the career of Jesus Christ as the one perfectly successful life, Attorney David J. Wilson of Ogden urged upon the students of the college Monday the importance of vision and character in the development of a successful life. The speaker referred to the early life of Christ that H. G. Wells made some years ago when he declared that Jesus was the greatest man that the world has ever known because his example has been the greatest force in shaping human character.

"The greatness of Christ," said the speaker, "arose out of the vision he obtained. In his fasting, his wilderness he thought out and formulated the course of his life. His resistance to the three temptations meant that he renounced the sordid and the material and determined to devote his entire life to doing good to his fellow man."

Next to vision Mr. Wilson placed the development of moral character and honesty of purpose. He pointed out that the tendency to compromise on one's ideals has been the ruin of many a promising career. The case of former Secretary A. B. Hall was referred to as a good example of this danger. "Whether Mr. Hall actually accepted a bribe from individuals seeking an unfair advantage over the government or not," he declared, "his story will at least record that he compromised his ideals by putting himself in the position of accepting favors at his hands. Once you have accepted a favor you have compromised your future. You can never again take a firm stand against those from whom you have received favors."

Other success factors discussed by the speaker were, the ability to do the work, the power to work, the power to lead, and the power to inspire. He concluded his remarks by quoting the lines of J. G. Holland, entitled, "God Give Us Men."

The college choir rendered the selection, "My Love Dwelt in Northern Land."

Annual Frat Mele Pronounced Success

The Annual Men's Pan-Hellenic ball, held last Thursday evening in the auditorium proved to be a success to expectations and may be rated as high as any other social this year. The success of the party was attributed to the constant activity of Chairman Moe Rich, and "Duke"

Alumni Notes

W. F. Haldeman, '22, has sent in his Alumni dues from 411 Hickory St., Warren, Pennsylvania, and adds, "If any of the boys from Utah should happen along this way, would be glad to have them call up." We presume he would be just as glad to welcome the girls.

Joseph P. Welch, '12, has received by mail a check from the Provo City Planning Commission. With the present rapid growth of Provo, Utah, the city is planning to make plans to care for antiseptic industrial development and increased population. Immediate attention will be given to plans for parks, boulevards, cemeteries, sewer, water supply, railroad tracks, location of manufacturing plants, etc.

An County Agricultural Agent at Provo since 1918, "Joe" has gained the confidence of the people by his ability to organize and manage detail work, and by his vigor in getting his job done.

Alumni readings in the recent Alumni circular letter about the little boy's prayer, "Lord bless all the boys that will pull and blow all the even that won't pull or blow." B. B. Edgerdy very promptly replied: "Put me in the herd that pulls." Not only that, but he enclosed a check for five dollars. Uncle Ben is widely known as an expert chairman of the Extension Division. Everyone will say, "Now, isn't that just like Uncle Ben!"

Alumni looking over an Alumni Directory recently, R. O. Larson reported having counted fifty five Alumni who, during their stay at College, had worked under his direction in janitorial or repair work.

During the week of January 21 to 24, a meeting of State Extension Workers brought back to the campus some eighteen Alumni—the county

Craney and Bert Howard as assistants.

About two hundred couples were present and unusually good music was furnished by the Bluebird orchestra.

The decorations were simple but attractive. They consisted of three large red and gold candles in the center of which were the fraternal insignias. The refreshments were also good, the punch bowl being a very attractive feature. The patroness and patronesses present were President and Mrs. E. G. Peterson, and the guests were national fraternity men from other schools.

Aggies Win Unanimous Decision

"Y" TEAM PRESENTS STRONG CASE.

The members of the Provo team were all new in collegiate debating and were possibly more nervous than their opponents. Carlyle May of the college seemed to have more force and conviction and made a creditable talk. Miss Hinchey was also very good. Her main speech opened the debate and she gave a carefully prepared talk with very good effect. Partridge's rebuttal was much superior to his main speech, he possessed much greater ease and assurance during his rebuttal and it was an excellent effort.

The affirmative case rested on the basis that a change in needed in the Philippines; that the suggested change would be most beneficial for the benefit of the Philippines and the United States; and that the suggested form of independence was the logical step for the United States to take in granting complete independence to the islands.

The negative argued that the suggested change was not a fulfillment of the obligations of the U. S. and that it was detrimental to both the Philippines and the U. S. and further that at this time the Philippines were not ready economically and politically for the proposed change.

After the debate, the Aggie debaters and Dr. Mrs. Wansley were entertained by the Y debaters and the Y debaters were entertained by the Aggie debaters at the Roberts Hotel. Dr. Wansley and Francis Wilson responded to toasts for the northerners.

The B. Y. U. were admirable hosts, they gave every attention and courtesy to the debaters and exhibited a very sportsmanlike attitude throughout the length of the debaters' visit.

agricultural agents and farm demonstrators. It is a real treat to the other Alumni to greet them. And we note that they are also welcomed warmly by a following of friends among the students.

We have an interesting letter from Stanley L. Prudden, '19, from Laramie, Oklahoma: "I'm not living in this part of the world—just 'glad' frothing' a little more. Am spending a couple of months in Oklahoma and Texas—mostly in Tulsa—but I'm hitting some of the smaller places for a few days."

I think you have my permanent address: 6 Harkins and 6th, 604 Harris Trust Bldg., Chicago, Ill. I didn't get the student life telling about our victory Thanksgiving Day, but I offer my congratulations to the team. We rarely feel good when U. A. C. comes out on top. My best to everyone there."

Ralph H. Cotter, '18, has several seasons been working in hard-bred eradication in Wyoming. At present, he is completing his thesis on the U. S. at the University of Minnesota, and lacks only an additional quarter in residence to complete requirements.

Irene J. Cramer, '17, recently passed examinations for reappointment as Lieutenant in the U. S. Army, and is now stationed with the 1st Infantry at Fort Douglas, Utah.

Ruth D. Richardson, '22, writes from Midvale, Utah, that her teaching school "may be in the sticks, and enjoying it most of the time." She is now teaching in the stock from the meadows don't take ready to the timber. Rufus was known at College as a most consistent worker, and will make good anywhere.

Wallace H. Wayman, '21, is doing missionary work in Dresden, Germany, according to "Mrs. Wallace," who writes from Chester, Idaho.
