THE "REPRESENTED" BOYS

It goes without saying that last Friday's program, the much advertised "supreme effort" of our campus masculine element, was a complete fiasco, a failure, and a disgrace to any represented body of civilized college students. We had expected—and we had reason to expect—our readers to see and hear a few clever, entertaining numbers, at the worst. We had expected things to last the chapel hour through. But we were sadly fooled. Almost bored to tears, we sat through thirty minutes of awkward, crude, unpolished attempts at humor. We had expected to be abruptly dismissed with an apologetic, "one number failed us."

May we venture to ask, what is the matter? Two months time was allowed the "representatives" to prepare for this one hour's entertainment; five hundred talented fellows were willing and eager to engage in the affair with keen and competition—the very essence of school spirit—was in the air; the girls had set a noble example, and every advantage conceivable favored the challenged men. But what did we get? Three lhapazard, five-minute stunts from any disorganized group of junior high school kids would have been more entertaining.

How is one empowered to act as the boys' representative anyway? And, further, does this responsibility descend automatically upon an intimate circle of his favored, if untalented, friends? Must our interests, our hopes, as a student group be thus narrowly confined?

There remains now only one thing for the disappointed fellows to do; to acknowledge the women as unequal victors, and to then organize into a truly democratic, mutually interested, active body that will not again so weakly cede its good name to the unworthy hands of a disorganized, irresponsible few.

ONE WAY TO STIMULATE SCHOLARSHIP

The individual who, laboring under some mistaken sense of injury, went before the proper authorities with the plea that the non-fraternity section of the student body wanted their scholarship average compiled as well as those of the fraternities, succeeded in bringing about a sorry state of affairs, where not only the fraternities but the stimulation of having their scholarships compared. The authorities thought that they couldn't do both, so now they do neither!

It was plainly shown in a letter to the editor in last issue that the publishing of fraternity averages stimulates the scholarship of their members. No doubt it would do the same for the non-fraternity section of the student body if their average was compiled and compared with that of fraternities. But—the fact that the averages of only one section could be compiled, is no reason why neither should. One section of the student body had better be benefited in this way than the other.

We can see particular good that would accrue from compiling only the non-fraternity averages. There would be no groups to compete. When the fraternity averages are compiled there is immediate competition.

We can't see, however, but that the money expended in compiling the averages of the whole student body, by groups, would be realized in increased scholarship to such an extent as to justify the expense several times over.

We are in favor of compiling and publishing the averages of the following campus groups: the non-sorority group; the non-fraternity group; each sorority; the sororities as a group; each fraternity; the fraternities as a group.

The averages of the non-sorority, non-fraternity, sorority, and fraternities groups may then be compared in order to stimulate increased scholarship among them. The averages of the sororities could also be compared to stimulate inter-sorority scholarship rivalry; and the same could be done for fraternities.

CAMPUS THIEVERY

The campus seems to be in the throes of a remarkable epidemic of thievery which ought to cease shortly if for no other reason than the fact that the one or one's pilfering the hells ought, by this time, to be pretty nearly fully equipped with overcoats, sleepshirts, hats, tape, gloves, golfshoes, rubbers, books, and brief cases that have made up their spool.

A concerted effort on the part of the whole student body to discover the guilty ones or to discourage their further depredations by increased vigilance presents itself as the best means of stopping this practice so utterly intolerable on a college campus.

We wonder why the least used hill path is the only one paved.

The Ivory Tower
Co-ed Issue of Paper Proposed to Boost Kaprices

Girls Show Ability in Programs Why Not in Writing—says Mark.

Editor of Student Life:

The writer is of the opinion that there is feminine talent up on the hill where Student Life comes out every Friday noon. That women have been emancipated and are now able to cope with the strongest men was well shown by what they exposed at the student body meeting given by the girls. I don't mean to discredit the boys for what they exposed, in the person of Al Mercant, because Al is a "big guy" and therefore has a lot to expose, but the girls had him out numbered.

Since the girls have already demonstrated their ability in one line, I should like to propose that they put out a co-ed issue of Student Life in the near future. If given the keys to Student Life office, they should be able to do themselves abundant justice in advertising Kaprices—Karpis—and that is a very timely topic now. So that it over girls, but don't keep on thinking too long—act. Tarras and the rest of the bulls are probably tired of the job by now anyway, and would no doubt enjoy a week's rest while the co-eds are getting out an issue.

Yours Truly
William D. Mark.

Editors Note: The staff is perfectly willing that the co-eds, particularly those interested in the coming W. S. Kaprice Kaprice, and the faculty members interested in making the same entertainment a success, should publish the next issue of Student Life—the last before the Kaprice.

Before assuming responsibility for the issue, the ones taking it over would be expected to give proof of their intention to make the issue a creditable one. Here is an opportunity for several members of the faculty, connected with the Kaprice, to show what they mean by "the right kind of editorials."

Isabel Withers Capable Feminine Lead in 'Rain'

Jeanne Eagles didn't come back to Portland in "Rain"—but Isabel Withers did, and no one who saw her Thursday evening in the opening engagement of the tempestuous drama has any objections to offer. She was superb as Sadie Thompson, and this, too with Miss Enzel's reputation to challenge her and a critical first night audience to compare her with the former lead.

Miss Withers has charm and ability and she demonstrated them last night in the part of the lady of the South Seas who hailed from San Francisco.

"Handsome," marine who escaped the "brig" to serve Sadie in distress is popular with this reviewer, as he was with the audience last night when it stopped the play once to applaud him in a big scene. Jess Le Roy plays the part with a sincerity and boyishness that charmed his observers.

Smothering Pango-Pango, in the midst of a tropical down-pour, is the setting for the whole play, and a tribute to the success of the atmospheric illusion was unbroken but evident throughout the theatre where, on one of the coldest nights of the winter with sleet and ice outside, the audience at intervals mopped a heated brow in sympathy with Joe Horn, the general trader.

Ponderous old Joe Horn and his Meesa, tremendous native wife in a Mother Hubbard, are elementary parts of the atmosphere of Pango-Pango. They sweeten and reek with heat, rock and fan luxuriously, and are alternately amused, interested and bored with the tangle of events thrust upon them.

Harold Salter, as the Reverend Alfred Davidson, is the zealous, bombastic tyrant and about him nestles the plot. His performance is excellent, a trifle prosaic.

Dr. and Mrs. McPhail, with Frank Dawson and Miss Marie Dille, are splendid and at times give the only touch of convention and reality to the play, for in the middle of emotions at boiling point, they maintain a kind humanism that is stimulating to jugged nerves.

By the third act the audience is pretty jumpy with the continuous down-pour from the roof, alternating with the lifting and falling of action, thundering at moments, monotonously dripping at others.

Oppression and tension characterize the whole production, silent footed natives coming and going, Joe Horn rocking and waving his palm everyone waiting for something they can't foresee and the tropical rain falling and falling. Sadie Thompson's photograph, the fillet of the natives, and sudden outbursts of pent up and overstrung nerves provide letting-down moments in which the audience catches its breath with relief.

During many parts of the play everyone sits quietly, not moving, not breathing, while the drama beats its way through tragedy and humor. And the curtain falls amid a deadening silence until someone suddenly comes to and starts a relieving and nervous applause.

This much more to be said for "Rain"—it is superbly acted by the company. The play itself has been played too much to be discussed here for its loose morals.

If you are looking for a moral, don't go to see it—because it hasn't one. It may be religion, vindication, friendship, but all the same it revolves mostly around sex-attraction and stark, unrelentless realism.

FARMER FIGHT MUST SUCCEED IN SIX SEQUENT SCRAPS

MAT CHAMPIONS TO SEEK REPEAT TOMORROW NIGHT

Seven Men and Coach Nelson Leave for Tonight's Elimination.

Coach George Nelson and seven lucky Utah-Aggie grapplers, left Logan this morning at 8 o'clock for Salt Lake, where they will enter the western division of the Rocky Mountain conference wrestling meet which will be held Saturday. The preliminary rounds will be held this afternoon and only those who qualify will enter Saturday's competition in the finals.

Coach Nelson's group of boys crushers appear to be the best ever to represent the Logan institution. Practically all of the men have had considerable experience on the mat and are able to give any opponent plenty of competition. For the past two seasons the Farmer grapplers, under the able tutelage of Nelson, have taken the hunting in the annual state meet twice and from present indications they are due to win in a powerful bid for their third consecutive championship.

Although the Farmer chances are exceedingly good the other schools of the conference have been working hard for several weeks and are determined to wrest the laurels from the Aggie men Saturday. Nelson's men have already secured a decisive victory over the University of Utah in a dual match, held recently in Logan. The exact strength of Montana State college is not known but they will undoubtedly enter some strong men. Utah beat B. V. Y. one point.

Joe Frost, heavyweight and captain of the Hilroy wrestlers, is an exceedingly powerful man in this class and is expected to make a great showing in the coming meet. Lloyd Nisbett, light heavyweight, has had considerable experience in the mat game and should also be able to make an excellent showing. Although Bill Wallace, lightweight, will be performing for the first time Saturday, he will undoubtedly establish a good record.

The other Aggie grapplers who will uphold the blue and white colors at the state meet include: Neil Peterson, 155 pound class; Alvin Shaw, 125 pound class; and Albert Parker, 115 pounder. Lloyd Nisbett is manager of the squad.

One Hundred Utes Arrive to Root—The Farmer Boys Don't Give a Hoot

Bobcat Battles Decide Aggie Chances for Conference Title.

Blue and White Must Win Both Games to Gain Hypothetical Opportunity to Repeat.

Ward Leads Scorers.

In case the Aggies triumph at least once in this University series they will be in hope for them to win the title when they encounter Montana next Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

The Bobcats lured at present by one game, having trounced the Blue and White twice and been set back once by the U. of U. They play at Provo tonight and are heavy favorites, inasmuch as the Cougars have lost six sequent games and are without the services of Howe, their heavy scoring guard. They also should close the season with two wins from the University on the Bosman floor. To draw them twice next week seems to be the Logan coach's chance.

Ward, Bobcat center, leads the scoring race this season, topping Worthington by six points. Scores played are even. Thompson is leading forward and holds third place with seven less than the Aggie center. Warner, the other Montana forward has scored one more than Hawley. Bredend and Giffin are ferocious guards, topping six feet in height, yet flashing about the floor like chipmunks. By Tuesday Hawley and Martindale will be able to re-enter the fray and will likely start with Worthington, Nielson, and Saunders.

WOMEN HOOPSTERS PLAY FOR PENNANT

Final plans are being carefully worked out for the annual girls intercollegiate basketball tournament to be held in the Smart gymnasium here next week in March to decide the championship of the school.

The three division court will be used and girls' rules play. They have perfect the plan so that it is as scientific and interesting to watch as a boy's game.

Miss Marjorie Givens is the coach. This is her first year as girls' physical director at the U. A. G. Point to leading her was her instructor at the University of Utah. The managers of the four class teams are: Freshman, Willis Henderson; Sophomores, Phyllis Ballou; Junior, Sarah Mendenhall; Senior, Joyce Bree.

The A. W. S. is awarding a pennant to the winner.

CAST ANNOUNCED FOR FOUNDER'S DAY DRAMA

Splice—Paul Layton
Harriet—Damaris Sutton
Old Soldier—Fred Hogan
Arthur—Madison Thomas
Isabella—Thelma Slattery

The whole cast has had much experience in acting. The fact that they are Perig members indicates this and most of them will be recognized as being students or recent graduates.

Perig will produce a play annually on Founder's Day of three acts or more, under the auspices of the Little Theatre sponsors. Mr. Hayward and Mr. Johnson are designing special sets for this production.

Seats are to be on sale Saturday of this week and those holding season tickets will have the preference of the especially reserved seats.

KAMPUS KAPRICES TO BE ULTIMATE ENTERTAINMENT

The idea of the company is to make you forget the Capitol, your partner and friends, as serious results will develop, since the dance is not a very long one. The miracle plays just explain your queer feelings for you.

So now that the Military Ball will soon be over, don't lapse into melancholia, for your big fun's coming at the Capitol Theatre, Feb. 28.

Dow and Couch Lead Redskin Basketeers On Scalp Hunt.

Hawley and Martindale May Stay on Bench—Davis and Wade Slated To Substitute.

TONIGHT'S GAME BEGINS AT 7 O'CLOCK

SATURDAY'S AT 8 O'CLOCK

Due to new seating arrangements there will be no seats and less standing room in the gym here forth. Three rows of bleachers beyond the center of the gym will be left only the ends and upstairs behind the chairs for general admission. Student seats are on sale at the Secretary's office at 25 cents.

Warren Hawley, last year's conference champion center, may not start tonight's game against the University Red Devils. At Martindale who leads scoring for guards this year by nearly 20 points is also likely to be a spectator in the first part of the battle. Hawley has been let a good part of the week with flu and Martindale has a strained foot.

These men will probably be replaced by Wade who is again hurt, and Carl Davis, who has had a good deal of experience already this year. This second combination would only be a temporary one, however, to be as it is the 1925 champions. Worthington, Nielson, and Saunders all are in fine fettle. Hawley and Martindale will be inserted if necessary.

The Utah team was used out twice in Salt Lake in no indication that a repetition is certain on the home floor. It was comeback in the second half that showed both tips and the margin was only one basket here Saturday. Dow and Couch are two of the most dangerous scorers in the conference, having the added feature of being immune scorers. Vincent also is a deadly threat.

It will be perfectly impossible for the Farmers to repeat as champion unless Utah drops both tips. If they do, and the Aggie men Montana and B. V. U. in the next few games, the title is assured.

If Layton slips once against the Fox or Cougars it will result, or if against the Bobcats a loss of the championship. All this is based upon four victories for Montana against Utah and B. V. U. in the preliminary games. This is quite probable as the Aggies lifted last week out.

NATATORS' MEET ANNOUNCED FOR NEXT SATURDAY

Conference Swim Slated For March 11 and 12

Unusual interest is being shown by the A. C. tank men over the state swimming meet which opens at the Brigham Young University, February 26. The date for this meet was possibly be changed.

Since the Provo swimmers have practically the same team back that carried off the laurels last season, plus the assistance of the state's premier swimmer, Lind Shields, they are expected to win the title again this year, according to dope. However, the Aggies do not believe in dope. The Blue and White has a worthy array of talent for the contest, and the Provo men will be pushed to their utmost in order to repeat.

The A. C. is fortunate in having five lettermen back this year. Captain Lee Olson, a two year letterman, in a class most two weeks ago, finished the forty yard sprint in 18 seconds, three seconds better than the state record. This record is not official and will not stand.

Phillips holds the state record in the forty yard sprint. Perce Harwood placed third in the fancy diving contest last season, and according to reports, is better this year than ever.

Almer Larson and Gerald Crockett are lettermen of two years ago and are expected to bid for high places in the meet. Likewise, a number of new men will work hard for places. P. Larson, Flannum and Hawley are the most promising of these.

The swimming schedule for the season is as follows:
State meet, February 25, at Provo.
Final meet with I. D. S. Junior College, March 3, at Logan.
Conference meet, March 11-12, at Salt Lake.

SMITH TRACK MANAGER

At a recent meeting of the U. A. C. executive committee, J. Ross Smith was chosen track manager for 1927. Mr. Smith was assistant manager last year. This, together with two years of practical track experience, makes him quite capable to handle the work connected with this office in an efficient manner.

Howe will not play for the Cougars tonight and the University is to be encountered in Provo on Montana's home floor.

Utah is coming up with twenty rosters and a thirty photo band. They are not for sale to replace those the Aggies lifted last week out.
