WELCOME PARENTS

Student Life wishes to speak on behalf of the Student Body today in extending a hearty welcome to parents who have climbed the hill to participate in the fourth annual Fathers and Mothers Day at the Utah Agricultural College.

School-day memories will be revived today for the parents. Regular class work, chapel exercises, a football game, a reception at the Home Economics Cottage and a College play constitute the day's program which should bring home to the parents memories of their school activity. It should give them a more comprehensive picture of the atmosphere which surrounds their sons and daughters, as well as the various forms of College activity in which they are engaged.

Fippant novels and so-called collegiate movies have Dads and Mothers painted as "those who pay the bills." But they are a lot more than that to the average college student. They are the ones who stirred our interest for education; who planned, saved and hoped for us.

Student Life expresses a sincere hope that the parents will enjoy their short stay on the campus and feel right at home. Parents: Come and see us again! We like your company!

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

It is the duty of every Aggie on the campus to patronize our advertisers insofar as is just possible. With Student Life coming out every week, which requires a great deal of advertising for financial backing, it is quite necessary that the College makes the business man feel that his help to the Institution is not a mere donation. An advertiser is more than a donor; more than a liberal person who wishes to see the College progress. He is a business partner, and there is plenty to the business side of a publication.

It is the wish of Student Life staff that the advertisers do not become impressed with the idea that their contributions will bring no results.

We must retain our gains and add to theirs. The next time you have a purchase to make just think over the names which you see advertised in Student — and BUY IT FROM AN ADVERTISER.

"The man who is perpetually hesitating which of two things he will do first, will do neither."—Wirt.

An editor was dying, but when the doctor bent over, placed his ear on his chest and said, "Poor man! Circulation almost gone!" The dying editor shouted: "You're a liar! We have the largest circulation in the country."—Pacific Woodman.

FAMOUS MUSICAL OPERA IS NEXT LYCEUM NUMBER

 of with Chicago Civic Opera Company, the Metropolitan Opera, the Cincinnati Opera, and in several European productions. William Hays has sung with Mary Garden in the Chicago Civic Opera Company. Miss Passmore is another great singer who has been with the Chicago company and with the Cincinnati company, and who has also starred in European productions.

Three lesser roles will be sung by newer artists whose abilities are just beginning to be recognized. In the selection of the company it was the decision to use only long established artists in the major roles and to find young singers just beginning their careers for the less important parts. This plan has worked splendidly. Those singing minor parts are Margot Hayes, Charles Boggs, and Howard Carman.

Due to the great cost of the production students will be asked to pay half price for this major attraction of the season. Tickets will be placed on sale next week. The prices are $2.00, $1.50, and $1.00 with the student body card having a value of half of these amounts.

"Well," said the bearded physician, "I find that you are suffering from an assorted crop of suppressed desires. You are also the fortunate possessor of three types of complex: superior, inferior and ulterior. Your thyroid gland is slightly out of focus, while neurologically your reactions are very poor. I find definite traces of dual personality and chronic melancholia. You live in a dream world and are mixed up in five or six interlocking personalities. I think you are perfectly safe. Go ahead. No jury will convict you."

"Thanks, Doc," gratefully answered Hamlet. Do you know where I can have a dagger sharpened?

Little Things

By John T. Caird

"Take care of the little things and the big ones will take care of themselves."
 "Mutilating Books and Magazines. Daddy, didn't you bring this magazine from the College?"
 "To be sure, Why?"

"See where someone has scribbled on some of the pages, and see where four or five pieces have been cut out of some of the pages. Do college students do things like that?"

"Unfortunately, yes, some of them."

Those who have occasion to consult the magazines kept in the library must often be impressed by the evidences of a lack of respect on the part of some readers. If a person is reading a book or magazine belonging to himself it is nobody's business if he chooses to mark it to indicate his agreement with or dissent from the opinions expressed, or to cut out parts that he may want for some special purpose. But with public property there is no excuse whatever for such mutilation. Nobody knows who makes the marks and hence they have no value as authority, and as they interfere with the enjoyment by others of the printed words, they are a positive detriment. And when we take out advertisements, pictures or other matter, they are guilty of a form of vandalism which is characteristic of those who do not properly appreciate the rights of others. No person of refinement would ever allow himself to mar the property of others.

Where an advertisement says "mail the coupon," the same service is rendered by the coupon, and asking for what is there called for.

It should not be forgotten, that schools are judged by little things, and that to all intelligent people the marking or cutting of books and periodicals belonging to the school indicates a lack of good judgment, which ordinarily would be called ignorance and foolishness.

HERB HOOVER WORKED WAY THRU COLLEGE

 agents in the fraternity houses.

"During his second year he organized and managed a co-operative student boarding house, along with other things. Returning for his junior year after a second summer with a geological survey, of Arkansas, he brought forth a plan for control of student activities by a student body. This was put through and he became treasurer of the student board without salary. He also managed a lecture and concert course.

"Between his junior and senior years he spent another summer with the survey. It was while he was a senior that he met Miss Lou Henry, also a geology student, whom he later married. Receiving his diploma in May 1905, he worked as a mine laborer for a brief time and then set out for San Francisco to link his fortunes with those of Louis Kahn, leading mining engineer of the West, from whom point his career began."

The Institute of School Music will be so successful last season will be continued for the third year. Negotiations with one of the leading school music men in the country are now under way and an announcement will be forthcoming.

The famous coaching school is to be continued though the names of the coaches have not yet been announced. This year also special courses in a physical education program and course of study are to be given by a highly qualified director of physical education. This course will be extremely valuable to those entering the physical education field.

The 1929 Summer Session will open on Monday June 10. Only one of six weeks will be given the closing date being Friday, July 19. Inter-session classes between the close of the Session and the opening of the Fall Quarter will be given however to those students who wish to do resident work during this period.

SKIDMORE ADDRESSES SALESMANSHIP STUDENTS

one who intends to apply for a sales position should ask himself the question "Am I a Salesman?" Sometimes the natural-born salesmanship instinct is absolutely necessary and is a prerequisite for a good salesman.

In order to become a successful salesman a person must, of course, have good territory. He must depend upon himself for his success. He must study and know his line of merchandise; he must show his line, and he must be able to talk his line.

Aid of Public Sought by Alumni For Library Endowment Fund

The Library Endowment Fund, Mr. Bennett said.

"I much appreciate the labors of the nobility who are at the College building character into the lives of our youth. I am enclosing my note to be added to that of others for the library fund for their encouragement."

This is the first attempt of the Library Fund committee to bring its cause before the general public.

Last year, it confined its efforts largely to alumni, with the result that $50,177 was pledged. The amount being sought in the campaign is $100,000, and it is the intention of the committee to solicit this year the aid of the hundreds of friends of the College in bringing the fund to the full quota.

The campaign this year is as simple and inexpensive in plan as that of last year. Literature is being sent to two thousand influential friends of the institution, offering them the opportunity to contribute to the fund. The first one hundred letters were mailed October 23, and others are being placed in the mails daily. The letters are accompanied by booklets that explain the needs of the library and the uses to which the fund that is being raised will be put. It is contemplated sending a series of three letters and booklets to these friends of the College. After the last letter is in their hands, the committee plans to call upon as many as possible and discuss the matter personally.

Election Sidelights

By W. M. McIntyre

Hoover has been elected. That is the situation discouraging as it may be. The last hope for a good soak has fled and now the freshmen have nothing to look forward to but four long dry years of collegiate life. And after that may come the pleasing prospect of four more years.

It is said by a leading magazine that Smith had the support of the intellectuals of the nation including colleges, college professors, scientists, etc., while those who voted for Herb did so because they knew no better. Wrong, of course, especially in the case of the U. A., which went decidedly Republican, excepting of course the way fraternities who held firm as a rock for "Wet's side." Of course we all know why.

A certain young lady of the Dormitory Brigade, says she voted for Hoover because of the way he combs his hair and she abhors brown dreads.

The opinion of the co-eds seems to hinge upon the question which of the two gentlemen in question is the handsomer. Rita Cranney wonders if Smith dances, and how well.

In a short burst of oratory, previous to the election a certain prominent Scholes expressed his feelings as follows: "I am a Republican, dyed in the wool, and I am for the Republicans, be they right or wrong. I care not who their candidate is, if he was a yellow dog, I'd vote for him."

That may express the politics of not a few collegiates and is perhaps the reason Hoover was elected.

"A Kiss For Cinderella" Booked For Nibley Hall Tonight

Albert Kimball, to find for him a wife. Of course Cinderella captivates all honors of the evening as well as the prince's "passionate" heart. Evelyn Reeder, Muriel Hogan, Mildred Heinrich and Jean Evans take the parts of the four little war-orphans, Marie-Therese, Gladys, Delphine and Gretchen, respectively, who are cared for by Cinderella who is trying to "do her bit" during war time.

Lord Mayor, Merrill Anderson; Lord Times, William Morrell, and the Censor, Leonard Rampton; are prominent figures in the court scene.

The gentleman, Leo Ferguson; Mrs. Maloney, Olivia Melfugh; Marion, Bernice Quinney; and the man, Howard Jessop, are Cinderella's "penny" customers at her shop.

The part of Lady Charlotte, the nurse, is carried by Donna Davis; Danny, by James C. Jacobs; Dr. Bodie, by Myrtle Dudley; Ellen, the maid, by Kate Smith; the Bishop, by Fred Hodgson; and Mrs. Bodie, by Alice Hartweiser.

Her Grace, Edna Capner, second beauty; and third beauty, Clarice Webb; together with the ladies of the court, Florine Benson, Mona Bowen, La Ree Gardner, Ina Allen, Gladys Hobbs, Melba Theurer, Alden Alder and Emily Cox, are the contestants at court for the prince's wife.

The courtiers are: A. C. Spackman, J. C. Allen, Foster Merrill, Donald Hansen, John M. Anderson, Allan M. Cannon, and Berg Prestwich.

The pages are Laura Nelson, Vir-

The Colorado Aggies seemed to outclass the Utah Aggies for the first three quarters last Saturday at Fort Collins when they took the game at a 7-6 victory. Beattie Williams, and Day, given remarkable interference by Glenn Davis, were the Colorado Aggies who starred before 6000 fans including William H. Jardine, United States Secretary of Agriculture.
