BEAT UTAH

Student Life urges that every Aggie football backer speak to everyone he meets without exception between now and Thanksgiving day. Do not say "hello" but let your conversation be "BEAT UTAH". It is right in harmony with that democratic and fervent Aggie spirit. In encouraging this method of greeting every student has an opportunity to constantly give voice to his enthusiasm and help build up the Aggie spirit until when Thursday morning comes the trip to the Ute stadium will be almost irresistible to everyone. "BEAT UTAH" is the pass-word.

SUPPORT THE TEAM

When the Aggies and Utes take the field at the Utah stadium next Thursday to battle for the conference title support given the respective teams from their supporters is sure to play a vital role in the final outcome. The game promises to carry with it all the attributes which have characterized Utah-Aggie games in the past. Both elevens have demonstrated well balanced offensive and defensive powers and are considered by conference critics comparatively equal in strength. When the day comes the Utah Aggies should be prepared to match strength with their bitter rivals in any department of the game. They will be satisfied with nothing short of victory. A win over Utah would mean a highly successful season for us. It would assure us of at least a tie for the Conference championship and should Denver defeat Colorado University the Aggies would have an undisputed claim to the title.

With the title at stake it should be the aim of every Aggie student who has a spark of College spirit in him to make the trip to Salt Lake if possible and contribute the necessary support from the stands.

Last season a favorable home schedule kept student spirit at a high ebb during the entire season and when the Thanksgiving day game came around the necessary enthusiasm was there. This year the unfavorable home schedule seems to have robbed the students of their high spirits. To bring Aggie enthusiasm up to its usual state for Thanksgiving day is going to require our attention from now on.

Let's promulgate this "Beat Utah" idea, make the rally Tuesday a big success and journey to Salt Lake next Thursday prepared to play our part in the game. The football team deserves the unadulterated support of every Aggie student.

The rates of $2.15 for round trip tickets on the U.I.C. lines should make it possible for almost every one to make the trip.

KNIGHTS AND CHEER LEADERS HAVE HERCULEAN TASK

The Inter-Collegiate Knights have an ungrateful task to perform in disciplining and seating the crowds at athletic events. In their liberal efforts to seat Aggie crowds in a courteous and effective manner they have to contend with a few disrespectful football lovers. Last year the card display at the Thanksgiving day game was executed with precision and effect almost to perfection. However, the achievement was not without considerable difficulty, for it took the utmost persuasive powers in numerous cases for the Knights to get some students to sit in the particular part of the Aggie cheering section where they were needed to make the display effective. The cheer leaders and Knights have an Herculean task on their shoulders at the Utah-Aggie game in handling the crowd and supervising a winning battle from the stands.

Any Aggie supporter should blush with shame who fails to render his whole hearted support next Thursday.

FRANK WORDEN

The passing of Frank "Greenie" Worden, one of Montana State's most promising athletes who died some time ago as a result of an appendicitis attack, was a misfortune in which the Utah Aggies wish to share sympathies. Worden is best remembered by Aggie athletes and sport followers for his stellar performances on the basketball floor. When Montana invaded the local camp last winter they handed the Aggies two successive drubbings in which Worden played an important role. Students of the Utah Agricultural College regret his death.

WHO'S TO BLAME FOR THE SCHEDULE

"Why is it that we must put up with such an extremely unsatisfactory football schedule as was booked for the home lot this season?" is a question which seems to be bothering some of our students and possibly a number of the townspeople. Of the nine games scheduled for the home lot this year the Montana State team was the only real drawing card of the season. Is this not the fault of our representatives who travel to Denver each year for the purpose of drawing up the athletic program? Or, is it possible that the Aggies must play the leading teams of the Conference on their own fields because they are unwilling to play in Logan? Could it, on the other hand, be any fault of our own?

The first is not likely because Coach E. L. Romney and Chairman A. N. Sorenson who represent Utah Aggies at the annual meeting in Denver are vitally interested in putting out winning teams, and to schedule the most difficult games away from home is only lessening our chances. A strenuous foreign schedule is an impediment to any team. The second is not true because the Aggies during the past decade have won the respect of their opponents in all parts of the Conference. Opposing elevens are only too willing to negotiate games with Utah Aggies. It is doubtful if any team in the league would object to playing Romney's charges in the new Aggie stadium.

Our own students of the Utah Agricultural College and fans of Logan and Cache Valley are at fault. To entertain a Colorado football eleven on the home lot means that we must pay their expenses and make it a worth while proposition for them. Football teams cannot be brought together from distant parts of country without sufficient financial support. The only reason that the Aggie-Utah game is played in Salt Lake every Thanksgiving day is due to the fact that we cannot afford to play it here. Logan crowds cannot compete with the masses which pack the stands in Salt Lake City. Our game with Denver University is played in the Denver stadium every season because they are able to make the affair more remunerative in their stadium than we can in ours.

If we would fill up the stands when the Aggies play at home, just as many thrilling battles could be booked for Logan as are scheduled at other places in the Conference. But if the followers in our vicinity do not support the team, games will continue to be played in other parts where football lovers are only too eager to offer their support to the home team.

Should we draw an exceptionally desirable home schedule for next year, which Coach Romney feels confident he will be able to arrange, it is up to us to go back of the team and make it paying.

Little Things

By John T. Caine

The address given in chapel last week was an interesting account of the widening sphere of women's possibilities in politics, and more than a couple of the students that is in wholesome, progressive womanhood.

Mrs. Landes should be an inspiration to all other women, young or old—for although having had all the responsibilities of making a home, she has demonstrated in her own career that after the most urgent demands upon a woman's time and interest have ceased, she can yet do a great deal for humanity, generally.

Mrs. Landes stressed two obligations which are of vital and far-reaching importance. The first she said in substance: "The women may seek other ideals in teaching, business or politics. I know of no occupation or career that equals that of wife, mother and homemaker." She emphasized also, the fact that many women after their families are reared, could do a great deal in a public way to guide people along lines that would make their lives better and more useful, and would greatly help in fostering higher ideals in the community and in hastening the uplift of the group.

The second point stressed was the need for law observance. All of us are urged to observe the law, not only for the sake of the community, but for the sake of the individual. The law is meant for the people who hear or read, but not for the author of the advice. And those who have a law, generally say to themselves, "That means my neighbors, but doesn't apply to me," and thus with a concealed idea of our own virtue and nobility, we have ears but hear not, and eyes but see not, the evils of which we are guilty and which are common to all around us.

elvie and social life. With the founding of the University of Miami in 1925 Mrs. Owen became head of the department of public speaking. In order "to honor and perpetuate the association with her" the students in her department organized an honorary public speaking fraternity known as Phi Beta Omicron. This name was chosen, according to their commencement organization rules, so that the initials P. B. O. would stand for Phi Beta Omicron. Mrs. Owen is now a member of the board of regents of that university.

According to the Philadelphia Public Ledger Mrs. Owen has had a thorough training in political life because of her close association with her father's work. It is said that during the years her father was a U. S. House of Representatives she accompanied him almost daily to the capitol, and later during the presidential campaign of 1908 she served as his secretary. Concerning her ability as a public speaker it states that "for the last six years Mrs. Owen has been in constant demand as a Chautauque lecturer and is one of the highest-paid women in that work."

BOB ZUPPKE ASKS 'HOW HARD IS FOOTBALL'

The players, the practice hours are shorter and shorter hours reduce the possibility of mental and physical fatigue. The rest periods are more frequent.

Some players may squawk against the dullness and the hardships of football practice because his vanity has been hurt by his failure to do well in the sport, or perhaps he has played on a losing team. There is always drudgery, if we must use the term, in preparing yourself to play any game. Nothing in life is gained which is worth while without hard work and a certain amount of sacrifice. Football will always be too hard for some boys who have been reared in a soft, pampered environment, with plenty of money to spend and ease to drive, which assure them of feminine company. Golf is more likely to appeal to this class than football. Have you taken note of some of the names which are bobbing up in the line-ups? The Raszkowskies, the Nowaks? This simply means that these first generation descendants of the newer immigration come from rugged stock and less enervating homes where endurance is more of a struggle, where the coonskin coat and its implications are as far away as Mars.

Don't think of football as recreation or exercise. Zuppke continues. It is only the old who talk about such things. In football youth finds the safety valve for his spirit. Football is more than a game; it is not a physical expression of strength, it is expressed physically. It is a symbol of sportsmanship and it is virile drama.
