KOLLEGATE KAMPUS KAPRICK SPELLS PLEASURE FOR EVERYONE

By GENE PEDERSEN
If we are to believe in signs, something good is going to happen February fourth. Of course, we, who have the advantage and superior knowledge that comes from being regular readers of Student Life, have known all the time that "it" was the Kollegiate Kampus Kaprick. This annual co-ed vaudeville. But now we begin to understand what the perpetual strains of music that originate behind drawn curtains is in misappreciation and which haunt the loafers who haunt the chapel, have to do with college education. These strains of music, along with the dances and comedy that go to make up the K. K. K. are to a college education as sugar is to coffee, as laces are to shoes, as starch is to collars!

Former Editor Awarded Honorable Mention In Contest

Scott Nelson, last year's editor of Student Life, recently received a letter from the National Journalistic Fraternity, which awarded him an honorable mention in the contest of 1927-28. Pi Delta Epsilon is the oldest and largest of the college fraternities. Each year it offers prizes for the best student writing in the field of journalism.

EXPERT SERVICE

In every field of activity there are many kinds of public service. Some of those kinds can be given by anyone so inclined but some are in nature "expert" service, demanding a visual eye and a trained mind, as well as a giving spirit. Such is the form of service that President E. G. Peterson of the College is giving the people of the intermountain country.

In the Monday columns of the Salt Lake Tribune, each week there appears, from President Peterson's pen, and article entitled "Thoughts on Rural Life." Each of these articles is a discussion on how we of the rural sections may live more fully. He calls to our attention the "acres of diamonds" that lie at our doors and tells us how to cultivate them. And in so doing he is truly serving with a visual eye and a trained mind.

The phrase "calls to our attention" is used because the most of us are more or less aware of these "acres of diamonds" but just how to use them we do not know. We feel that this or that is a potential benefit but being unable to put it into use we grow used to it, thinking of it as more of its presence. Then the visual eye sees how it can be made serve and the trained mind devises the means for it's use.

"Thoughts on Rural Life" is an expert service from a man who sees and feels and who is giving himself to the problems of living completely and fully.

I HAVEN'T TIME

"I haven't time!" This is the byword of the college student. It is the password which permits the student to escape the tasks that approach with outstretched arms. It is at once the word of relief from new tasks and the word of sorrow that other enjoyable works cannot be undertaken.

Arnold Bennett once wrote a little booklet, "How to Live on Twenty-four Hours a Day." The average collegian could greatly profit if someone could treat the problem from the standpoint of the life of the student of the modern institution of higher education.

Utilization of time was the big secret of Bennett's advice on living on the time man has. It is no less a factor in solving the constant query of the student mind: "Where can I find time to do this, and this, and this, and that and that?"

The modern world is a busy world. The modern life is a busy life. Students, in the main, are going to pass from the whirl of the classroom and extra-curricular activities to some phase of the maddest of America's super-speeded commercial life. Use of time to be an essential for advancement in position. It will be no less an essential for a reasonable enjoyment of life.

The student who learns to utilize his time well in the dizzy pace forced on him in college has a big advantage in the task of learning to utilize his time well outside. He has an edge in the battle for a living and for the appreciation of living. Such utilization of time does not consist merely in wiping out idle moments. It does not consist merely in utilization of scattered bits of time during the day. The utilization of time that will be of value to the student of today the graduate tomorrow, is of a different nature. It is the utilization of time that comes from an evolution of activities. It is the ability to recognize lines of effort whose value is slight and the willingness to substitute for them those lines of effort which promote the real ends of the individual.

A multitude of interests beset the average student. Fortunately he who can choose wisely those which will best round out his development. Fortunately he who can eliminate the spokes from the college's whirling wheel which mean pleasure at the sacrifice of development, which mean time devoted to essentials that the student would prefer to devote to essentials.

The student who has acquired the technique of "How to Live on Twenty-four Hours a Day" speaks the phrase, "I haven't time" with a different meaning than the average harassed collegian. He has time for the real if not for the trivial. He may sigh with regret that he cannot undertake other efforts. But he smiles with satisfaction at the knowledge that he has chosen in what direction his efforts will be turned rather than permitting himself to wander unguided in a maze of studies, activities, social life, and idle conversation. The Daily Nebraskan.

"The best investment a person can make is an investment in the training of his mind and hands. Education pays dividends throughout on's lifetime."

SOME HASTY THOUGHTS

W. D. McIntire

A new group of girls has taken possession of the Economics Cottage for the Winter Quarter.

There are plenty of girls studying Home Economics but no men are registered in this department, which raises the question—should boys study Home Economics? Of course you will say that such courses belong entirely to the women, that men have no right therein but have not men as much right to study Home Economics as women have to study shop mechanics?

I know two Sophomore boys who intend to register for that course in the Spring. I do not know whether they really intend to profit intellectually by it or whether it is only the companionship of the ladies that they desire above all else. But whatever the motives which inspire them they are to be praised—they stand as shining lights for the boys of the women-ridden world. The "Blues" songs once so popular seem to have entirely lost their kick. Dance orchestras no longer play them, women do not hum them nor do the boys whistle them. Farewell to those forgotten relics of a vanished past.

There was once a time when every red-blooded American male carried some form of pocket knife. It was an essential characteristic of the male race. But that a sad condition exists today. Not one college boy in ten carries any form of a knife whatever. It must be another sign of the encroaching wave of effeminacy.

An old claim that stabs me at regular intervals is people who chew gum or eat candy in the halls. I have never been able to comprehend the curious psychology that drives students to such habits. I have often wondered why it is that the average student's mind cannot work independently of his jaws.

A perfect example of anti-theft was completed when the Seminary was erected at the north of the College, directly opposite Nicotine Point. I wonder how many of the students of the greatest number of disciples by spring.

"In the place where we should have least expected it, we have one of those eternal triangles. Like all Gaul, the library is divided into three parts: the main library, secured by annual readings with the State and donations; the Larson Library, once the pride of an English teacher; and the Young College Library. Triplets are ever a worry!"

When down town you can get a whole box of thumb tacks for a nickel and the College Book Store has six. We say "Thumb down!" on our own store. A College should know nothing of profiteering.

"I had the time of my life!" smiled Professor Arnold when returned from his seventh, successive, Christmas hegetra. And judging from the sparkle in his eyes he talked of his trip, we believe that he told the truth.

We propose that the inebriate prize be given to the sorority girl and the fraternity boy who were seen in the hall, recently. Such vulgar unrestrained is nauseating. The lack of binding to this act is as disgusting as it is incredible. Surely these two behemoths of the college, who are supposed to be the leaders of the eighth grade. Many are bold but few are brazen, but even these few are two many."

Elsie Peterson

RICHARDS GIVE INCREASES THE LIBRARY FUND

(Continued From Page One) and it was the opinion of his heirs that it would be especially fitting to use a part of his estate to further the growth of agriculture, in honor of his memory.

The heirs of Mr. Richards have expressed the desire that all contributions made to the library fund by members of the Richards family be added to Mr. Richards' gift. This would swell the total to $250 at the present time, as two of their members have contributed $250. Members of the family who attend the college in the future will be encouraged to contribute to the fund, so that it is estimated that the gift of the Richards family to the Utah Agricultural College will eventually total $1,000.

Mr. Richards' contribution has been invested, and is yielding six per cent interest. If the family gift of $1,000 is invested at the same rate, the total contribution will yield $3,000 in interest in fifty years, or three times the original gift, and the principal will still be intact. Through the far sightedness and generosity of the heirs of Calvin Willard Richards, the department of Plant Pathology will thus in time be enabled to acquire a well-stocked library.

Stanford University Co-eds will be allowed to remain out nights until the last hour of 11:30 o'clock merely by filing a written request.

Co-eds at Minnesota spend more than $800.00 weekly on chewing gum, according to the campus store-keepers. They state that over 10,000 packages are sold every week of which half have the flavor of peppermint.

Co-eds are a liability according to Knute Rockne, famous Notre Dame coach, who attributes his success to the fact that there are no women at Notre Dame. "She takes a lot of the athletes' time, either as the expense of his studies, his playing or his sleep."

Madison, Wis.—More than 43 per cent of the Co-eds graduating from the University of Wisconsin during the past 29 years have joined the ranks of "old maids," according to a survey recently conducted by the Journal of Heredity.

Ohio State and Illinois come next with 43 per cent of their Co-eds failing to marry. Leland Stanford and the University of California with 40 per cent and Oberlin College with 35 per cent.

In Arkansas and Massachusetts the figures are completely reversed. About 96 per cent of the women in Arkansas and 80 per cent of the women in Massachusetts who graduated from college are married before they are forty.

Several of the Montana team were present for a short time and witnessed the hearty greeting that was given by the Pi Kappa president, Duwayne Bourie, when this member of the victorious Aggie squad entered. "THE MOLLUSC" TO BE STAGED AT ART BENEFIT

SECOND PRODUCTION OF PLAY
SPONSORED BY LOGAN
JUNIOR HIGH

On Friday evening at 8:15 the College play, "The Mollusc" will be presented in the Logan Junior High School for the benefit of the art exhibit. This is the second public presentation of "The Mollusc" during the school year. The same cast that presented the play at the Capitol will again appear on Friday night. They are: Mr. Baxter, Alton Cannon; Mrs. Baxter, Lou Bancroft; Tom, Emerson Abbott; and Miss Roberts, Gladys Hobbs. Just before the holidays this cast took the northern trip while the other cast took the tour through southern Utah.

"The Mollusc" has been very successful this year due to the careful direction of Professor Meyers and the marked ability of the players. Admission of fifty and thirty-five cents will be charged for the performance.

Two Funerals

Two funerals passed along the way.

As I walked into town today,
And one had coaches ten,
And one had coaches only four
The greater and the lesser bore
The earthly garb of men.

A stranger on the sidewalk said:
"A splendid citizen is dead."
Yet comes another drawing near,
And there are but four coaches
here.

Well, poor men also die!"

What matter coaches four or ten
When we are borne to earth again
And that last prayer is said?
And does the sidewalk stranger
know
In truth the rich and poor who go
To join the silent dead?

I fancy God unmoved shall be
By signs of pomp the living see.
Who passes heaven's door,
Shall with the angels find his place
By something of the spirit's grace
Not coaches, ten or four.

AGGIES WIN FROM GOLDEN TORNADO

Blue And White Jerseyed Hoopsters Force Bobcats To Split In Great Series

Sharpshooters Meet
Tartar After Easy
Win

Montana State Bobcats, that highly touted quint from Bozeman, man-crawled back to their locker after being able to take but one of two games last week from the "Dink" Romney's hoopsters. In two of the most exciting games ever witnessed in Logan, the Bobcats eased through the Aggie defense on Friday night to the tune of 57-33, but on the next, the Blue and White came back and whipped the famous sharpshooters into a deafening uproar from end

Aggies started things rolling in the first game and lead for a short time, but when the Golden Tornado began to function it could not be stopped. The Bobcats had a beautiful ten point lead at the end of the half and kept the ball through the hoop during the last sessions. Orlando Ward led this onslaught at the

The second battle of the season was a close one. Grimsby faced a team of white shirted boys dashed into the game determined to die and the Golden Tornado was finally squelched after a tough struggle. Grimsby, the fastest basketball fans have seen here for a long time. "Cal" Davis and "Red" Wade are the best basket shooting. Red Wade's

Theater. Smart's was the great allround work of his "big Zeus" and DuWayne Henrie were factors in spelling defeat for the Bobcats in this desperate battle. The Aggies looked improved 100 per cent over the first encounter.

The officiating of the Spencer twins, Solo and Sid was very commendable.
