"FAT" HAWLEY BECOMES DUPE OF SWINDLER

Mysteriously Relieved of Suitcase While Waiting for Richfield Train

Transient Signs "Warren" to Telegram Asking For Money; Foiled

A week ago last Saturday, while returning to his home in Richfield, Warren Hawley became the dupe of a transient swindler. Mr. Hawley with two heavily packed suitcases entered the Richfield station and left the Richfield train for his home. The swindler, who was waiting for the Richfield train, followed him to the station and, after a brief conversation, he was mysteriously relieved of his suitcase. BUSINESS OF LIFE DISCUSSED BY S. L. ATTORNEY

Chooses Quotation From Lord
Morley as Theme; Interprets
The Four Aspects of Definition

Attorney Carl Dieder of Salt Lake City was the speaker in his lecture on "The Business of Life" at the University of Utah last night. He chose as his text a quotation from Lord Morley, an English statesman. "The business of life is to be, to do, to have, and to enjoy."

Mr. Dieder interpreted "to be" as meaning the character of an individual which is the basis of his life. He said that the character of an individual is the basis of his life. He said that the character of an individual is the basis of his life.

Mr. Dieder stated that the character of an individual is the basis of his life. He said that the character of an individual is the basis of his life. He said that the character of an individual is the basis of his life.

BACK STAGE SCENES AND SIGHTS OF SOROSIS VAUDE

"My hell! Aren't those damn girls here yet? Ruby Stratham remarked as she dashed in the stage door just before the matinee performance Monday afternoon. One of the stage managers turned to a little girl and said, "They would have been here long ago. She certainly never arrived."

Play Station was also heard to say during the matinee performance that the girls would be here long ago. She certainly never arrived.

A week ago last night the entire Sorosis troupe advertised their vaudeville at the Playhouse. After Helen Hinde had watched some of the fun girls during the night in their little vaudeville, she was asked to join the troupe.

Manager Lesore Croft admitted of Helen Hinde, "How can we make a water effect on the stage?"

Utah Wins Unanimous
Decision Over Nevada
John Carlisle and John K. Edmonds, representing the University of Utah, defeated Emerson Wilson and Miss J. E. H. of the University of Nevada in a debate held a week ago Tuesday in the University assembly. The decision was unanimous in favor of Utah.

Dr. George E. Feltows, head of the history and political science department of the University, acted as chairman, while Judge John Greenwood, Attorney K. J. Solberg, and C. Davis were judges. The question discussed was: "Resolved, that except in cases of invasion or internal rebellion, should be declared by the direct vote of the people." Utah supported the affirmative, while Nevada upheld the negative. This subject was debated three times by the Utah team which carried California and Texas by the same margin. In Oregon, California was a member of the former team and Edwards on the latter team. He met the University of Southern California in Nevada on the same question after in April.

Mr. George Croft of Ogden was a guest at the Sorority house, Monday and Tuesday.

SOUTH AMERICA

STUDENT WINS PROHIBITION PRIZE

Students of Twenty-nine Countries Compete; Winner Victorious On Prohibition and Individual

WESTERVILLE, March 25.—A student from Columbia, South America, Jorge Manabell, was awarded first place among student representatives of 29 countries that participated in the contest held annually for state students attending American colleges by the International Prohibition Association, Student Department of the World League Against Alcoholism, the outcome of which was announced today. Mr. Manabell is the College of Engineers at the University of Michigan. He wrote on the theme, "Prohibition and the Rights of the Individual." The office of the International Prohibition Association is in Washington D. C. Dr. Ernest H. Christensen of Westerville is chairman of the Executive Committee.

Additional prizes and honors were awarded as follows: Second place, No Young Party of Force, a senior at the University of Minnesota, who wrote on the "Economic Effects of Prohibition in the United States"; Third, Joseph Talavera Santos of Japan, attending Drexel Theological Seminary, who wrote on "Nationalism and Abolition in Japan"; Fourth, T. T. Tan, Shanghai, China, a student at Stanford University who discussed the situation in America under the title, "Should the Eighteenth Amendment be Retained?" and fifth, Miss Ruby Adendorff of South Africa, a student at Columbia University, who wrote on "Prohibition Has Come to Stay."

The world problem of drink and the international influence of America on prohibition in the United States is the contest which has been going on for a year among the students from other countries now attending colleges and universities in this country. They took special interest in what is being done in this country as they see it from the viewpoint of thoughtful young men and women who have come from other lands, they are deeply interested in similar problems at home and are gathering information which will be helpful in their home lands to which practically all will return within two or three years.

Twenty additional prizes were awarded as follows: Hi Yun Cho, Korea, a graduate student at the University of Chicago, Chuan Wang, China, a student at McCormick Theological Seminary; Nada Tolomomoff, Sofia, Bulgaria, a senior at George Washington University and last year a student at the University of Richmond; Kurt Friedrich Lindtner, Germany, a graduate of Gordon College this year a Fellow at the University of Chicago; and Yoshimaru Hamaura, Japan, senior at Tulare University of California.

Seventy-two students from 29 countries entered the contest. The countries represented, in addition to those mentioned above, being Australia, India, France, British West Indies, India, Philippines, Netherlands, Switzerland, Egypt, Greece, Palestine, Mexico, Russia, Peru, New Zealand, Hawaii, Spain, Belgium and Turkey. One student claimed himself national as "American."

Orchestra and Glee
CLUB IN ANNUAL REE
CONCERT SUNDAY

school when he was mistaken for a former inmate, but they finally decided that one had to first have a conviction before being in and was over.

The concert was highly received everywhere they were given. It was practically every town, often were extended for return engagements. The variety of the repertoire carefully selected to appeal to all audiences, was especially appreciated by the audience, who did not fail to show their appreciation.

Among the offerings of the Glee club, the most popular were "Vivante Song" by Richard, "Dixie" by Bruno Hahn, and "Robin's" "Lullaby" Among the group of buxom songesses, "Bluebird" and "Old Man Noah" were the best received. They were worked out in an unusual and catchy manner, and never failed to bring a roar of laughter and applause. "Old Man Noah" nearly proved the guiding of the club on the number. But the second half, the talented young Mr. Hunt of American Falls fame, always managed to save the day. Mr. Hunt's motto is "Variety is the spice of life," and he always lives up to it—especially when it comes to hitting a pitch.

The college orchestra was composed of ten artists who can interpret and play the best and most difficult of classical music with the ease and grace of professionals. The "Serenade" by Dvorak, and "Rag" Hungarian "Dance" by Brahms seemed to be the best liked in this group. Ragtime solos by Miss Ladona Meyers on the piano, Miss Alice Huber, on the violin, and Professor Wells, vocal, added greatly to the program. He did also numbers by Professor and Mrs. Christensen, Laver Larson, and Al Baker. There can be no doubt that these young entertainers love their work with an enthusiastic devotion which is bound to carry off audiences of all interests, ages, and classes.

The orchestra played for dances in practically all of the cities where they were given, and proved very popular. To the Glee club boys, though, go all honors for shikking and leaving. Looking Morson and Sharkey Starr deserve honorable mention for their attainments in this regard, though the married man ran them a close race. Take it from the club, Big Alphas should never get married. However, thanks to Ed, many's thanks to the parties never became rough. The college owes a lot to such young stalwarts as Ed. The only sad occurrence of the whole trip came when the handsome fiddler laid a broken heart in black foot, to pair with the one just south of here. The Phi Kappa really should do something about this man with his trail of crushed hopes and saddened eyes. The club also craved his congratulations to two young couples who will always be able to look back on this trip as the garden in which, romance first blossomed. Lewiston will probably be regaled with a number of saxophone and violin duets in the future. While Alice will practice obligation for Rick's many blunders. We consider these combinations ideal.

LETS RAN ON DANCING

BEREA, Ohio.—Family members of Fairview College were invited to fill the bus on dancing that has prevailed at that institution since its founding 50 years ago. President Storms, after an experience of student dances, says that he will abide by the decision of his faculty.
