LANGTON MEMORIAL SERVICES

Last Tuesday in chapel impressive memorial services were held in honor of Prof. Willard S. Langton. Prof. Thatcher rendered a vocal solo entitled a "Joy and Sorrow" and other members of the faculty told of pleasant experiences associated with the life of Prof. Langton and extolled the virtues of the man who has won the love and admiration of all who came in contact with him.

Prof. John T. Caine, Jr., told of first meeting Prof. Langton at his home in Smithfield when the latter was only eight years of age, and of his subsequent acquaintance with him in the Logan city schools and later as a co-worker on the college faculty. He said, "I cannot remember ever having heard any student say that he would rather not be in Prof. Langton's classes. He was a practical teacher, and always required his students to recite in plain common sense English."

Dr. Thomas spoke of his acquaintance with Prof. Langton in the Philosophical club and on the U. A. C. faculty. He said that Prof. Langton was the father of athletics at the A. C. fostering the activity under very adverse circumstances. He said that the deceased was intensely human, and cosmopolitan in his enjoyment. "The world to him was religion." He spoke of the magnetic hand shake of Prof. Langton, and said that he never knew a man who had such an impressive personality.

Dr. West spoke a few reminiscent words regarding his school work under Prof. Langton, calling attention to his ability to question students, in such a way as to bring out the best they had in them. He said that the thing Prof. Langton will be remembered longest for is not the instruction which he gave, but the wonderful influence of his personality.

Prof. Wm. Peterson paid tribute to the deceased for the encouragement and inspiration that he always gave so freely to those who sought it.

Prof. Widsøe endorsed the

THE PROMENADE

The Junior Promenade given by the Juniors in honor of our most worthy Seniors will be held March 29th, in the Thomas Smart Gymnasium.

Dignified and elaborate, the Prom. always stands out far above any other dance of the school year. It is one occasion when the upper classmen meet not as rivals on the gridiron, or opponents on the rostrum, but as friendly and gracious beings. The modest Junior will trip the "light fantastic" with the dignified Senior not caring for an awkward step, but enjoying the pleasing measures of the music.

Now that the 29th is drawing

JUNIOR POLICY

To serve the U. A. C. is the aim of the Junior Class. This service does not consist merely in attending the College. It means filling the attendance with good, solid work, plenty of fun and a lively participation in student activities.

Just now the Juniors are in the midst of two great services. They are preparing the Prom and making the Buzzer. The average student little realizes the magnitude of this work. It means days and nights of toil and thought, disappointment and nervous head-aches.

The Junior Prom, to be a success, demands thousands of

TAG-WEEK FOR THE "BUZZER"

With the hope of eliminating all likelihood that students wanting "Buzzers" will fail to subscribe, the "Buzzer" staff expects to carry on a very active campaign during the remaining two weeks of the "Buzzer" sale. In order that the sales agents may be able to distinguish those students who have not yet subscribed to the "Buzzer" the management has hit upon a plan of tagging all those who have subscribed. Starting to-day all students holding "Buzzer" subscriptions will be given tags by the agents with whom they made their deposit. Those making their deposit from now on will be given a tag which will protect them from the solicitous attention of the agents. Those not showing tags will be approached by the "Buzzer" agents and requested to subscribe. By this means the management expects to reach even the most bashful freshmen; so that no one will need be disappointed at not having a "Buzzer" when it makes its appearance in early May.

We would again like to emphasize the necessity of signing for your year book at once, rather than taking the risk of getting a left-over when the book comes out. There will be but a limited number printed so now is the time to act.

Wear a tag and show people that you are a loyal supporter of a splendid undertaking. Let your slogan be: "Six Hundred 'Buzzers' in 1915."

AUCTION.

Notice is hereby given that Friday the 12th day of March 1915, A. D., at 11 o'clock a. m. of said date at the chapel room at Logan, Utah, is the time and place set for auctioning off booths for the Junior Promenade.

All parties interested appear at said place in readiness to do some lively bidding.

Indications are that the Freshmen will bid high.

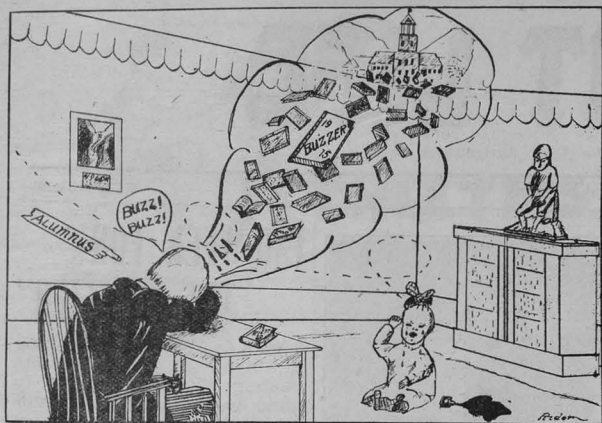

Miss Helen Keller will be here in the near future, as the next number on the Lyceum course.

ALUMNI DEPARTMENT

The Alumni association will have charge of one day and evening of the Quarter Centennial Celebration of the Utah Agricultural College. The celebration will be held during commencement exercises next June.

The Agricultural College of Utah was founded in 1888 but it was not opened for the admission of students until September 1890. There were six in the first graduating class in 1894. Ninety received degrees from the college last year. The growth of the institution during the past twenty-five years has been marvelous.

Every member of the Alumni association should be present at this celebration.

An urgent request for information concerning the following has just been filed with one of the corresponding secretaries:

Joseph E. Shepherd, '94.
A. B. Larsen, '94.
Will Fred Culmer, '95.
Josiah C. Rear, '96.
Charles A. Jensen, '97.
Frederick H. Atkinson, '98.
J. C. Hogenson, '99.
William H. Homer, Jr., 1900.
Charles B. Smith, '01.
Amanda Holmgren Sanchi, '02.
Thomas C. Callister, Jr., '03.
Edmund Crawford, '04.
James E. Barrack, '05.
Irvine Allred, '06.
P. G. Peterson, '07.
Hans E. Jensen, '08.
Daniel L. Pack, '09.
Veda Dixon Hanson, '10.
Ira A. Cole, '11.
Earl Robinson, '11.
John A. Morrison, '12.
Lofter Bjarnason, '12.
Heber Bennion Jr., '13.
Lon J. Haddock, '13.
M. R. Gonzales, '13.
William Baker, '14.
George Ray Hales, '14.

Any officer of the Alumni association will be glad to get information concerning these people—preferably from themselves but willingly from any other source. The officers are:

President, William Peterson '99.

Secretary, Violet Greenhalgh, '14.

Treasurer, John L. Coburn '05.

Corresponding secretaries, Joseph Hickman, '13; J. B. Bearnsen '14.

Executive committee:

William Peterson, '99.

Robert Stewart, '02.

C. N. Jensen, '08.

J. E. Shepherd, '94.

G. R. Hill, '08.

We have repeatedly asked members of the Alumni association to furnish us with information concerning themselves or of anything that is of interest to the college, but very few have responded. The stage for these requests has now passed and from now it is made absolutely obligatory. Either furnish us with some knowledge of what you are doing, where you are, and why we don't hear from you, or we shall be obliged to request some one to furnish us with an account of your obituary.

Joseph Hickman '13 is requested to make his whereabouts known to the secretary of the Alumni association.

Information is desired concerning John E. Bowen '14.

The entire class of 1902 is reported to be in Logan. Who are they?

John I. Lauritzen, '13, it is reported has just been married. As to the authenticity of this report we should like to hear from Mr. Lauritzen.

Jos. R. Thomson, '96 is requested to communicate with the president of the Alumni association.

Ralph O. Porter '12 is visiting at the college this week. Mr. Porter has been studying Sanitary Engineering at the University of Chicago and is home on account of the illness of his father. The two years previous to this Mr. Porter spent at Harvard.

Feb. 20, 1915.

Mr. John Coburn,
Logan, Utah.

Dear Sir:

Enclosed you will find the dollar for my Alumni dues. Will you please have my Student Life changed to my new address.

I was married Sept. 16th, and just returned a few weeks ago from a trip to Hawaiian Islands, California and Grand Canyon.

Am sorry the Aggies lost to the Utah team in football. Always glad to get the college news and to hear of her successes.

Wishing you all a most successful year, Sincerely,
Winnifred Smith Whitehead.

THE BUZZER WITHOUT A STING

Amid the world wide clamor among scientists to produce something quite new and original for the big year of 1915, it seems; something really worth while is about to be given to the world. Sweet peas as large as poppies, violets whose sweet breath perfumes a continent, oranges without peels, nuts without shells, fun without pay, pleasure without end—these wonders flare in Frisco. But right here after long and anxious months of study and waiting, an obscure scientist startles the world, by the announcement, that at last he has discovered, what even the wildest dreamer had never hoped for—A BUZZER WITHOUT A STING.

Among the various species of Buzzer extant in the world at the present time, all seem to be infested with this most needless and uncomfortable supplement. Indeed, so inseparable has been the sting from all species of the order Buggeraceae that we invariably associate the two together. We cannot even look upon the innocent honey bee without being reminded—(yes, forcibly reminded) that it HAS a sting, and all the honey that it stores will not help us to forget this defect. As yet we are unprepared to feel just how much this stingless Buzzer means to the world, but without a doubt it will revolutionize our modern civilization. So, it is without thankful hearts we herald the century's latest triumph!

So recent has been the discovery, that, as yet, the habits of the annual have not been "run down." Dr. E. K. Winder who, in connection with the discoverer, has done some research work, is at present able to give us one important law governing its life history. He has stated it in the following terse phase:

"Like a bee without honey"

"Is the Buzzer without money."

Species of these highly interesting and beneficial organisms are now germinating in the laboratory. No effort is being spared to make their growth as favorable as possible. "Live or die? Survive or perish?" This is the cry that is raised. Would you see these brilliant possibilities of life perish for want of nourishment and care? Would you see them blighted before ever having felt the thrill of living? Six hundred of them are lying there anxious to spring into life. Your dollar, deposited now, will be the magic wand that will give this life to one of them.

Act while the impulse is strong. Be a life-giver!
*Every rose has its thorn is a maxim old,
And we thot it would stand 'til the world grew cold;
But now we expect quite another thing,
For we've found a Buzzer without a sting!*

paper flowers all to be made by the Juniors. Then booths and corners have to be auctioned off to procure some of the means to finance the affair. The best music obtainable must be sought and bargained for, and a dozen more details cared for with the most pains-taking attention.

Then comes the Buzzer with its hundreds of problems. In the first place it must be paid for. $1600 is the price and it is no small task to locate that much money in this community. All pictures of students have to be procured lest some one take offense. The choice of proper paper, print, ink, together with binding, color-schemes, cuts, reading matter and general arrangement furnish material for unending thought and discussion. And finally, the tremendous task of exacting from each student the price of a Buzzer,—$2.50.

Despite all these difficulties, the Prom and Buzzer are going to be successful, for the elements of success are on hand. Junior work and spirit are irresistible. Both these undertakings must be done well. Junior effort and thought, alone, however, will not produce the highest success. There are two other indispensable essentials; first, the proper attitude toward past experience; second, the unflinching support of the U. A. C. students. The ups and downs of previous Junior classes in dealing with Proms and Buzzers, must be considered carefully; all that is good utilized, the bad culled out to make room for something better. Perhaps the most important essential to the success of the Prom and Buzzer is the loyal support and sympathy of the Student Body. Each student has the power to make these propositions go and he should see to it that he does not allow this power to lie idle or misuse it. This is not only a Junior but also a student affair. It is simply conducted by the Junior class. The Juniors are in the service of the college and wish every aid and suggestion that will render the Prom and Buzzer successful.

No one is dubious about the outcome. The three elements of success, loyal student body support, proper utilization of past experience and plenty of Junior work and spirit will assure successful service.

PERIWIG CLUB ENTERTAINS

At Murdock's on the evening of March 1, the Periwig Club entertained the members of the "Milestones" cast. Light refreshments were served, and the following persons responded to toasts: Prof. Pedersen, M. F. Cowley, D. Nichols, B. Nichols, Dr. Carrol, Miss Thatcher and Miss Huntsman.

Some valuable criticisms and suggestions were received, and considerable dramatic enthusiasm was astir.

This is the beginning of what the club proposes to establish as an annual event. It is merely an appreciation of the work done by the cast in the College play.

MISS HUNTSMAN READS PEER GYNT.

At the formal opening of the New Hotel Logan, Saturday night, Miss Huntsman gave a reading of the famous play Peer Gynt. The reading was accompanied by Grieg's Peer Gynt Suite, executed by Mr. and Mrs. Spicker and Professor G. W. Thatcher.

The reading was given under the auspices of the Clio Circle to about two hundred invited guests.

GREETINGS

Since the Junior Class is editing this number of Student Life, we take the opportunity of conveying our greetings and best wishes to the remaining classes and other organizations of the school. Although as Juniors we have a separate class organization, yet in regards to the welfare and general advancement of school activities we are all part and parcel of the Student Body of the Utah Agricultural College. Therefore your success give us pleasure and your failures detract from our contentment.

JUNIOR CLASS.

Upon the Junior class of each succeeding year, fall the responsibility and distinction of perpetuating two of the biggest traditions of the College, the Promenade and the Buzzer. Each class vies with the preceding one in an attempt to outclass and excel in the presentation of these traditions.

They are never the same from year to year. Originality is the watchword! For the Prom., a new scheme of decorations, a new style of programs, a new order of refreshments, and for the Buzzer, a new plan, an individual art scheme, a new arrangement of photographs etc.—these are the constant stimuli. Always something NEW. If you fail to get something new, you fail to please.

There is a constant drain upon the resourcefulness of the Juniors. In the annual Prom., they express the social acme of the school and in the publication of the year book, they are peculiarly the voice of the traditions, sentiments and ideals of the college.

The Junior class of 1915 is attempting NEW things. Its aim is to make the Prom., more delightful, if possible, than it has ever been before; and to incorporate in the Buzzer original ideas and schemes that will stamp it as an individual.

Our work is for the future. We aim to build upon the structures of the past.

UTAH'S DEFEAT

The following excerpts are taken from articles which appeared in the Chronicle of February 25th.

Concerning the B. Y. U.-Utah debate the Chronicle said:

"The decision of the judges was a surprise to many, since Utah met the B. Y. U. on every point, while the church school men evaded a number of the main points made by Utah."

This from the write-up of the basketball game:

"Many are of the opinion that Utah was given the little end of most of the decisions."

Of the Aggie-Utah debate in Salt Lake, it has this to say:

"After all, it was an equal division of honors. Utah won the debate and A. C. got the decision."

Mr. Bearnsen's speech was referred to as "of the extemporaneous variety" and adverse criticism was given him because he did not use all of his allotted time. We are of the opinion that a debate should be extemporaneous and not memorized.

At the close of Lincoln's Gettysburg speech, Mr. Edward Everett, the orator of the day, said: "Mr. President, I should be glad if I could flatter myself that I came as near the central idea of the occasion in two hours as you did in two minutes."

Some people attach more importance to quantity than to quality.

The articles also contain uncomplimentary remarks concerning the other representatives of the opposing schools. Utah seems to lack the ability to take defeat with a spirit that in any way approaches grace. After having had a voice in the selection of the judges, who were kind enough to contribute their services, and after having agreed to abide by the decisions of those judges, Utah expresses the above sentiments. Why have judges, if the participants have not enough sportsmanship to abide by their decisions without so much squealing?

This attitude is far from complimentary to the University of Utah, and furthermore, is a direct insult to the judges who decided the contests.

If the articles referred to, do not express the sentiments of the school, but of an individual, the lesson for the University to learn is to exercise a little closer censorship over its publication. If they are an expression of the general sentiment of the school, the thing to be recommended, is an immediate change in attitude which might come by cultivating a broader and healthier outlook on the situation.

The three institutions concerned have a common aim, viz: the education and betterment of the people of this great State. The friendly contests engaged in, should tend to further that cause, by uniting the schools, and bringing them into closer relationship. If they fail in their purpose, the fault lies with the participants. In taking the attitude expressed in the number of the Chronicle referred to above, the University is failing to maintain the standards of sportsmanship necessary for the achievement of the desired results.

That sportsmanship is to win without bragging and lose without squealing.

Make your dates at the Theta ball for the Junior Prom.

PROM REMINISCENCES.

The night was dark and the heavy fog was so dense that you could almost cut it. Wallace Budge pulled the collar of his coat further up around his neck, wripped more grimly the small-suit case in his left hand and plunged on up the street.

"Well, of all the weather, this certainly takes the cake," he muttered half aloud as one foot almost slipped from under him in the slush. A flash of lightning lighted up the street before him for an instant and then all was darkness again. Budge whistled softly to himself and quickened his pace. Just as he was turning a corner, he collided into another person coming from the opposite direction.

"Look out where you're going!" sounded a clear voice from out the darkness.

"Oh," laughed Budge, "you certainly do me credit to think I can see you when I'm sure you couldn't see your own hand in front of you."

Just at that moment another flash of lightning came. For fully three seconds the two men stood facing each other.

"Irvin Nelson, what on earth are you doing here," burst from Budge.

"Well, if it isn't Budge. Of all the surprises—!!"

It was pitch dark again, but the two friends had clasped hands in a tight grasp of friendship. Then each one almost overcame the other with questions.

"Hold on a minute, Nelson," interrupted Budge. "First of all, tell me what you are doing here in New York and where you are going at this untimely hour."

"I'm here representing our firm in Utah and now I've got to catch my train home," answered Irvin.

"You're not going to do any such a thing. You are coming to my home with me and spend the night. Then we can talk over old times. Now, not a word. Surely you won't try to object when we haven't seen each other for twenty years or more. There's another train tomorrow noon."

The two old college chums walked up the street arm in arm.

"So your home is here in New York?" Nelson was saying.

"Yes, and here we are now," answered Budge, as they stopped before a large building, the outline of which could barely be distinguished. "I was called on a case and, as my car is out of commission, I had to walk there and back—just a little over four miles."

Soon they were both comfortably seated before an open fire place in a well equipped library.

By their expressions, one could easily tell they were discussing old times. The fire-light played upon their faces and danced upon the wall behind them, making grotesque forms out of their shadows. It was performing its usual work—the recalling of by-gone days.

They talked about everything and inquired of each other about everyone.

"And just to think that on the twenty-ninth of this month the big Junior Prom will take place there," said Irvin slowly. "Do you remember just twenty years ago from that very date when our Junior class gave the Junior Prom? In 1915 wasn't it?"

"Yes, and I'll bet that old gym never saw a more delightful time before nor since. Can't you just see everything the way it was that night? Such a midnight garden effect was unexcelled. If I remember correctly, Dr. Vorhees (now teaching in Berkeley) had that in hand and he sure did himself proud."

"I must admit it was the dance of a lifetime. Believe me, it sure upheld, and even surpassed, the dignity of any Junior Prom I have ever attended. Don't you sort of have a queer happy feeling whenever you recall that dance? Doesn't something inexplicable, something undefinable take possession of you for the time being and carry you back to the dance hall in the gym? Then you can almost hear the lively strains of the orchestra and feel yourself being almost floated around with the crowd. Now isn't that just the way you feel about it?"

"Yes, and what's more, you forget all your troubles and trials of business when you think of such a glorious time."

The fire-light had ceased to flicker about the room and just a glimmer of red coals could be distinguished between the dying embers.

There was a deep silence. Budge rose to adjust the grate for the night. He turned to Nelson and said:

"Well, Irvin, I'm going to catch that noon train tomorrow. I need a rest, so I'll go with you. Then I'll be in Logan for the 29th. Yes, sir, old boy, I'm going back to Utah, back to the U. A. C. and back to the Junior Prom."

The Supremacy of the De Laval Cream Separator

37 Years of Leadership

Supreme in Skimming Efficiency

Over 35 years of experience and thousands of tests and contests the world over have demonstrated the De Laval to be the only thoroughly clean skimming cream separator, under all the varying actual use conditions, favorable as well as unfavorable.

Supreme in Construction

This applies to every part of the machine—to the bowl, the driving mechanism, the frame and the tinware. The De Laval patent protected Split-Wing Tubular Shaft Feeding Device makes possible greater capacity, cleaner skimming and a heavier cream that can be secured with any other machine.

Supreme in Durability

The De Laval is substantially built. The driving mechanism is perfectly oiled and the bowl runs at slow speed, all of which are conducive to durability and the long life of the machine. While the life of other cream separators averages from three to five years, a De Laval will last from fifteen to twenty years.

Order your De Laval now and let it begin saving cream for you right away. Remember, that a De Laval may be bought for cash or on such liberal terms as to save its own cost. See the local De Laval agent, or if you don't know him, write to the nearest De Laval office as below.

Supreme in Improvements

This has been the greatest factor in De Laval success. Not a year goes by but what some improvement is made in De Laval machines. Some of the best engineers in America and Europe are constantly experimenting and testing new devices and methods, and those which stand the test are adopted.

Supreme in Service

With its worldwide organization and with agents and representatives in almost every locality where cows are milked, no stone is left unturned by the De Laval Company to insure that every De Laval user shall get the very best and the greatest possible service from his machine.

Supreme in Satisfaction

De Laval users are satisfied users, not only when the machine is new, but during the many years of its use.

Supreme in Sales

Because they are supreme efficiency, construction, durability, improvements, service and satisfaction, more De Laval Cream Separators are sold every year than all other makes combined.

GEO. D. CASTO WINS THE HENDRICKS MEDAL

There is something about an extemporaneous speaker that commands our respect, perhaps it is the "level head" and the active mind which are requisite to success. What ever it is we must admit that it is present at the A. C. for extemporaneous speaking is rapidly gaining favor at this institution. Never has the Hendricks medal created such interest as was exhibited this year. Enthusiasm was shown not only by the twenty three who entered the tryouts and the four who competed in the finals but in each case the listeners were likewise interested.

The final held two weeks ago, was an exhibition of high class work, rarely seen on such occasions. Clear and logical thinking was exhibited by each speaker. There was no bombast, the contestants used that quiet, forceful delivery which must always make public speaking effective. The contest was by no means one sided. The winner competed with men "worthy of his steel."

Mr. Meeks showed that "The problem of the empty pew" is one that will not be solved until the teachings of the priests are made to conform with the needs of the people.

Mr. Casto portrayed A. C. Nelson as "A Son of Utah," ending his remarks with a statement made by the late superintendent in his last public address—"Be ashamed to die until you have won some victory for mankind."

Mr. Clark called our attention to the fact that it is at the fire side where the manhood and womanhood of our nation is moulded; he ended with an appeal to maintain a high standard in our American "home."

Mr. Quinney pictured the danger of "The Legislator and His Bill." He contended that the good of the people rather than personal ambition should prompt legislation.

The contest was a lively example of good that is being done by this annual event. Mr. Geo. B. Hendricks who makes it possible, deserves much credit.

THE HIGHER AIM

Classes are organized to aid certain groups of students, who have interests in common. By means of these organizations the members thereof are afforded an opportunity to mingle socially and thus to become better acquainted. Through this contact of man with man, each learns to appreciate the point of view of the other. The vision extends beyond the mere individual and penetrates into the soul of the man or woman. And hence the possibility of eliminating formality and convention from class socials. Sympathies expand and a fellow feeling takes the place of narrowed individualism. The tie that binds all men together has greater sway and the exercise of its power justifies class organization.

The performance of certain obligations, devolving upon the different classes, should not be the end of all class aims. For after all, there is something bigger, more important and broader in its possibilities than any class. That something is the aggregate of classes—the Student Body. As classes, clubs or individuals the chief purpose, next to scholastic interests, should be to extend the power and influence for good, of the Student Body of the U. A. C. Its members are gathered from all parts of this state, and some from other states. The possibility is beyond conception. Men and women who leave this institution bear the training they receive from Student Body activities, just as they carry the experiences of the classroom. And the kind of persons they are will reflect in part the character of the student body from which they came.

And so in maintaining the societies, fraternities, clubs and class organizations, the members ought not to lose sight of the greater good. Simply because a man belongs to a certain fraternity, a certain club, or to one of the class organizations, is no reason why he should withhold his sympathies from any other organization. Let these be, but means to the larger end, and all will be better for it. The class spirit, the fraternal feeling and club interests will increase and all will vibrate with the power of a united, loyal student body.

—MA WILSON.

RESULTS OF ORATORICAL TRY-OUTS.

The elimination contest for the students competing for the medal offered by the Sons of the American Revolution was held last Friday, and resulted in the choice of the following men who compete in the finals: Sumner Hatch, Heber Meeks, M. F. Cowley and Lowry Nelson. The finals which were to be held last Tuesday, but which were postponed on account of Prof. Langton's funeral, will be held next Tuesday in chapel at 12 o'clock.

THE COLLEGE ROLL.

The College roll is posted again, putting forth, as examples to all delinquents, those shining lights that were fortunate enough to land As and Bs. The roll furnishes most excellent proof of a student's standing, for only the A and B students gain access to the coveted sheet. Even though six Bs and one A equal but 570 per cent and six As and one D equal 600 per cent, no one will deny that the B and A look better than the As and D. Therefore no one with an ugly D shall find place on the roll.

Besides showing the "standing" of students, the roll serves another admirable purpose. It coaxes the students to higher grades so that they can see their names among the honored.

But alas! The roll, although containing a lofty ideal to which all should strive, failed to bring all the backsliders up to the desired standard of "scholarship." The pull was not strong enough, so the "Notoriety List" found its way to life as a means of pushing those behind, forward. On this list are the Fs which, interpreted, means Flunkers. It is the spur, the whip, the warning, the great "Thou shalt not enter here," impelling all Fs into the realm of As and Bs. Great is the anguish of the soul that sees its name enscribed among the lost. The "Notoriety List" is hell on a chapel door.

Yes, the children of the dear old U. A. C. are proud of the roll and list, for it shows their "standings" and furnishes an ideal, high grades and publicity, to which they shall direct their efforts.

It is simply D grading not to be on the College roll.

Last basketball game of the season tonight. Let's finish with a victory!

U. A. C. 23.
B. Y. U. 31.

Before a large enthusiastic crowd of A. C. students and supporters, our basketball team was defeated by the B. Y. U. last Friday night by a score of 31 to 23. Provo took the lead at the start and the Aggies were unable to hold them down. In the first half the score was close but all through the second period Provo had a safe lead.

The Aggie team played a hard constant game but lack of experience showed against them, and they could not break up the excellent team work of their opponents. Chipman and Taylor of Provo were the stars of the game. The line-up:

Coach Watson of Weber Academy was referee.

A. C. WRESTLERS TO BE AT A. A. U. TOURNAMENT

At a meeting Wednesday the executive committee decided to send a wrestling team to Salt Lake to compete in the Inter-mountain A. A. U. tournament to be held March 10th, 11th, and 12th. Boxing and wrestling matches will be held to determine the amateur champions in the different weights.

This will be the first time for the A. C. to send representatives to this meet but Coach Teetzel expects to make a creditable showing. Men from the Deseret gym, Y. M. C. A., B. Y. U., U. of U., U. A. C. and amateurs unattached will be entered.

Coach Teetzel will take Halton, Gardner, Arch Egbert, Nelson, Young and "Andy" Anderson to wrestle for the A. C.

U. A. C. VS. U. OF U.

Tonight at 8 o'clock the last basketball game of the season will be played in the Smart gymnasium between the A. C. and U. of U. The Aggies lost to Utah early in the season at Salt Lake but Coach Teetzel expects to return the defeat. A large crowd attended the game last week and with the same support and same team we can lick the U. of U.

A. C.-B. Y. U. WRESTLING TOURNAMENT.

Next Monday night at eight o'clock A. C. students will have the only chance of the year to see the wrestling team in a great tournament when it meets the wrestlers from the B. B. U. Eight ten minute matches will be held in which the eight best wrestlers from the A. C. and B. Y. U. will compete. Both teams have been working hard to get in shape and some exciting matches are expected. The Aggie wrestlers are:

Harry Halton, 115lb; Salisbury 125lb; Gardner 135 lb; Arch Egbert 145 lb; Dave Jones 158lb; "Andy" Anderson 175 lb; and heavy weight.

CROSS-COUNTRY RUNNING TO BE TRIED OUT

In response to a number of inquiries, Coach Teetzel has decided to try out cross-country running as an additional sport here at the A. C.

Therefore, all men that are interested, or even merely curious are invited to meet at the Coach's office in the Smart gym. at 4:15 p. m. sharp next Tuesday afternoon. They should be dressed ready for a short trial run. Ordinary gym clothes and shoes will be sufficient.

This sport, which has taken such a good hold on many other colleges is particularly adapted to men who are not strong in any special line of athletics. ENDURANCE is the main requirement. And for that reason alone, it is an excellent type of exercise. It has the added advantage of being in the open air, and through a constant change in scenery. The run is usually made out through the open country, across fields, or along roads. The first run, Tuesday, will not be too long, so that anybody may feel safe in coming out.

Don't come out if you are only interested in some possible trophy or prize later on. Only those men are wanted, who feel the need of healthful out-of-door exercise, and who want to come out for the sport there is in it. It will be diverting and restful. You will also make new acquaintances under new conditions.

If this new sport is properly encouraged by a good attendance, it will be possible to make it still more interesting by including "paper-chases."

Come out, and try a short run! Fill your lungs full of this snappy Spring air, and the gloomy days will go!

TRACK AND BASEBALL TO START SOON.

Coach Teetzel issued a call for all track and baseball men last Saturday at 2 p. m. Twenty-nine men reported and with these as a nucleus, winning teams can be developed in the spring. Work will begin early next week, the track men in cross country running and the baseball men will work out every afternoon in the gym.

HANDBALL.

The handball contests for the class championship are being held every afternoon in the gym. Lund and Taylor are the prospective winners of the tournament.

BALLET.

The classes in Physical Education, under the direction of Miss Johnson, are working daily on the "Ballet" which will be presented to the Student Body and the public on the evening of Monday, March 15th in the Smart Gym.

The program will consist of national and folk dances in costume. The main feature of the evening will be a pantomime ballet by the dancing classes.

Miss Johnson and Miss Ballantyne are working unceasingly on the costuming and staging, sparing no pains to make the affair a brilliant success.
