OUR COLLEGE

TUNE—RAH RAH BOYS

Sung at the B. A. C.
Contributed by S. H. Parry.

Who's that making all that noise?

It's a bunch of A. C. boys,
Like the rattle of the battle
They're waking up the town.
At the school they always work,
And you'll find they never shirk,
Alwas in its ever minute,
They make the old place hum.
With a ricksy-racksy, sis!
boom! bah!

A. C., A. C., (Rah, Rah, Rah!)

CHORUS

Oh! our U. A. C. we are proud of thee.

For you take the lead always,
We will stand by you,

And forever true,
We'll loudly shout your praise.
Rah, Rah, Rah! (yell)

Our flag blue and white.
Stands for what is right,
Truth in all our contests sways,
People want to know the reason
Why we have success each season

Oh, our U. A. C.!

Anywhere your students are,

Your fame reaches near and far

Your high aim will make your name

The best known in all the state.

Be the journey rough or fair

The U. A. C. is always there,

Game as any more than many,

They never come in late.

With a ricksy-racksy, sis

boom, bah!

A. C., A. C., (Rah, Rah, Rah!)

CHORUS

Oh! our U. A. C. we are proud
of thee.

For you take the lead always,
We will stand by you,

And forever true,
We'll loudly shout your praise.
Rah, Rah, Rah! (yell)

Our flag blue and white.
Stands for what is right,
Truth in all our contests sways,
People want to know the reason
Why we have success each season

Oh, our U. A. C.!

WHY WE SHOULD ATTEND THE A. C. SUMMER SCHOOL

Logan is the select spot of Utah, or the West, for summer school work. It is a neat, picturesque little city, well equipped with modern conveniences, and up-to-date in its business houses and general appearance. No one can help but feel a thrill of admiration as one steps from the depot and gazes up Center street, with its cement pavement and parked center. The beautiful homes on each side add to the favorable impression which is by no means detracted from as one nears the bank cor-

A WORD FROM THE ART DEPARTMENT

Did you see the exhibition of students work in the Art Studios on the third floor? If you did not you missed a treat. A few of the things have been retained as examples to aid future students and you should not miss seeing them. The Art Department is offering a regular professional summer school of art and all the classes are conducted on the Atelier plan, thus bringing each student into close personal contact with the instructors. No better opportunities can be found in the West for

TWO MORE PRIZES FOR HONEST WORKERS

Two more annual prizes for scholarship and ability have been added to the U. A. C. number. Judge J. W. N. Whitecotton has offered for the best student in Domestic Science, fifteen dollars, and for the second best, ten dollars.

The prizes for this year have just been awarded to Mrs. Lottie Kunz and Mrs. C. B. Clayton, in the order named.

Judge Whitecotton has shown excellent discrimination by offering his prizes for work done in such a worthy field of en-

MISS HUNTSMAN'S EXCELLENT WORK

When one knows the tremendous amount of work that has been shouldered by Miss Huntsman and her corps of assistants in writing, staging, and shaping the U. A. C. pageant of last Saturday, one involuntarily bows in commendation of this persistence, courage and genius.

It was a tremendous undertaking to attempt the writing and acting of the life of the people incident to the pioneering, planning, building and life of the Agricultural College. It required first genius to conceive the plot and second it demanded ability to write it, third, it took practical ideas and splendid application to stage it, and fourth it exacted a knowledge of the psychology of the audience in order to have presented it so as to receive their unstinted applause and approval.

The ability of Miss Huntsman to accomplish the task assigned her, has been conclusively demonstrated by the splendid culmination of her efforts. She has operated the pageant machinery with the skill of a master mechanic who loves his work and knows every detail of his machine and its workings. She has poured oil on the grating parts and put pounds of steam and energy into their manipulation. Her quick wit and excellent sarcasm filled the bashful A. C. youths and maidens with a divine fear and understanding, inasmuch that they amazed themselves and their director by the grace and dexterity of their actions.

The success or failure of the undertaking has depended on her. She has been the architect of the structure upon whom has rested the portrayal of its characteristics and beauty. The success of the pageant is largely due to her and the A. C. historian will accord her the center of the stage, which she justly merits when he writes the history of the great pageant of 1915.

MISS HUNTSMAN ASSIGNING PARTS FOR THE PAGEANT

"Please tell Mr. Thornton he is a fool. He doesn't know it. Mr. Homer Christiansen is also a fool, but is unaware of the fact."

"Leland Hawkes will represent Orson Pratt, the silver-tongued orator. Of course we do not expect Mr. Hawkes to wag his silver tongue like Orson did."

"In the country village scene Mr. Dave L. Sargeant will take the part of a high school marm."

"I had chosen Mr. Jostrum to be a farmer, but he looks more like a fool than a farmer, and I shall ask him to act natural."

"We want jolly Mr. Eb Kirkham to represent the donkey in 'Midsummer Night's Dream.' He has the bray, we will furnish him the ears."

"Miss Ballantyne will act the Fairy and supplement the part of our donkey, Mr. Kirkham, in a most graceful manner."

"A large number of our A. C. boys think it a decided honor to take the part of an Indian. Whether our red friends would feel honored by their impersonators is questionable. We will furnish horses for ten Indians who will be expected to fall off easily." Note—The Indians all agreed to come up to

PUSH ON THE WHEEL

If our school paper is to portray real student life, as its name suggests, you, the students, must contribute to it, the interesting happenings of yours and your fellow students summer school life. Each one of us have experiences, hear and see things, that would naturally add to the tone and life of our paper, thus making it reflect, in a true sense, our activities.

If you have criticism, frankly state it. Suggestions you are sure to have, please voice them. Hand in write-ups of your socials, lawn parties, canyon trips, country excursions, and moonlight rambles. Let us all hear through the paper, the jokes and pleasant experiences of the halls, the class rooms, and the big out of doors.

The policy of the paper is to serve, amuse and interest you. Kindly help it to attain its aim.

"WHEN WE GET TOGETHER WE'LL BE GOING SOME"

Next Saturday night at 8 P. M. the U. A. C. Faculty will entertain, at a get acquainted party, all summer School Students at the Smart Gymnasium. Come and get acquainted with us all. Pinch yourself and get wide awake to the A. C. U. good times 🍷 🍷 🍷

Locals

Class work begins Wednesday morning at 8:30.

You may serve yourself by obtaining at the registrar's office a list of rooms and boarding places.

When the ox teams entered the Pageant, a young, well powdered lady said: "Can they be real oxes?"

Miss Farnsworth says: "I love Manti, but Oh you A. C.!" She is here for Summer School work. Look her up.

Jack Finlay, president of the senior class, announcing their commencement program said: "The class will act natural, so will put on something light."

Mrs. Alice P. Norton, of Chicago, will lecture at 10:30 every morning, during the second week of the summer school, in the Woman's building. All summer school students are welcome.

Why not have a relay race? The faculty have a swift team which ended fourth on school field day easily defeating the sophomores. Have we any students who are fast? I mean fast runners. Don't miss take me.

Mr. Smith, who has been guiding the young and rising generation of Riverside and Garland for a number of years, has been blown in for our A. C. Summer School. You can all tell Mr. Smith by his happy smiling face.

Dr. Harris' dog Caesar or Caesar's twin uncle was seen, one afternoon last week, asleep in front of the Rex pool hall. Where was Dr. Harris?

Mr. Brooks, exclusive agent for the Pinkerton Detective association, swears that he has an intimate knowledge of all the canine representatives of Logan, and that the dog purported to be Caesar, which was seen lying in front of the Rex pool hall was a ninety third cousin of Caesar's. We can, then, infer from this expert evidence, that Dr. Harris was not necessarily in that immediate vicinity.

Miss Huntsman, dreaming over the pageant in English 20,—"Mr. Crook, please read football."

"Get at it
Stick to it
Get it
Don't worry."

Miss Huntsman—"I hear, Mr. Bond, that you are a natural born fool. I hate to see you miss your calling, so will assign you to the occupation the Lord intended for you." Bond made good.

"Keep not standing fixed and rooted,
Briskly venture, briskly roam!
Head and hand where'er thou foot it,
And stout heart are still at home.
In each land the sun does visit,
We are gay what'er betide;
To give space for wandering, is it
That the world was made so wide."

A desperate tilt between Dr. Thomas and Dr. West.

"Wasn't it great about the pageant?"

"Don't say pagint, it sounds horribly ignorant."

"Well, how do you pronounce it?"

"Why, pagiant, the a, as in bonnie laddie."

"How?"

"Hm-why-er, pagint, pigant, yes, yes, pigant, pigant, that's it."

"Well, you sound as if you had a dreadful influenza, threatened with grip."

"Well, that's right anyhow, pi, pa, yess pigant."

"You'd better go to Texas. You'll never recover here. I don't believe you any way. Everybody says pagant."

"They don't either!"

"They do so!"

"Oh, well, it depends on the sort of people you associate with—"

"Well, I don't go with a lot of fake high brows, anxious to show off the French they learned in a course of lessons under Prof. Arnold."

"Better than a lot of country junks who don't know how to pronounce—"

"Oh, well, it cleared up any way."

ner and looks at the magnificent Hotel Logan, and the row of business houses presenting a solid face for three blocks on the West side of Main street.

The gardens, orchards, lawns and the trees along the sidewalk give the town a homelike appearance. The conventionality of the big city is not felt, and one remains not long a stranger.

The congestion, smoke and glare of a big city is not felt. The heat of the day is seldom depressing and the nights are always cool and refreshing. The breezes of the canyon are laden with health and vigor, which brings roses to the cheeks and brilliancy to the eye.

Logan canyon, with its many scenic beauties is easily accessible. Tired students can refresh themselves with small effort by spending the week end among its laughing streams and luxurious side-canyons. The mountains are ever inviting the harder pleasure seekers to climb their sides and view from their tops a landscape rarely equaled. The dark, deep turns of the river are full of fish waiting the hook of the angler. The fields are open for our inspection and instruction. From every side is extended an inviting hand—luring us to a romp with nature.

The A. C. buildings and grounds rightfully hold the commanding view of the city. Logan river in co-operation with Lake Bonneville, labored for thousands of years building those grounds, and the best thought and talent of the State of Utah has been given to the construction of those buildings and their furnishings. Room and laboratory equipment for a thousand students are at the disposal of the attendants at summer school. The teachers are young and full of the enthusiasm of life, yet old in knowledge and experience. No field of honest endeavor and progressive thought is forbidden. The gates of the world are open, you have to but enter and be helped to interpret and enjoy it. What the A. C. U. teaches is not a luxury, it is a necessity. One cannot afford, in this day of keen competition, to be without its helpful instruction.

Its social and intellectual atmosphere is elevating and wholesome. Its men are strong and high-minded, its women are pure and womanly. Cleanliness of body and mind is the basic principle of its existence.

HEARD ON THE BLEACHERS PAGEANT DAY

"Why does Brigham have a fur cap on in July?"

"Here comes the Spirits of Turpentine," said a wit, as the dancers entered.

"Isn't it great! It's a masterpiece!"

"Mr. Short doesn't think the fairies are overheated," and the breeze kept breezing.

"Here comes Brigham and with him the first woman."

"Quite naturally," remarked a tall spinster.

"Miss Huntsman has done herself proud."

"I'd rather see the Indians two-step or bunny hug," said a lady with a vaudeville face as the Hon. Governor Thomas was addressing the people.

"Miss Huntsman is an artist."

"Do those people represent the first Mormons?" asked a pinched faced maiden, pointing to the fools with horns on their heads.

"The only hitch to the entire performance was the ox yoke hitch and it was to a pioneer plow."

"That donkey guy does more than most of us, he has got a girl stuck on him," said a forlorn rube.

"Say, wouldn't a midnight serenade, under a full moon by that bunch of light fleeced fairies, be some stunt?"

"That their dancin' is the best I ever seed in the whole gall darned United States, or the old country either," said a jolly old farmer with a sly twinkle in his eye.
