President E. G. Peterson Demands Faith With Science

Education Fails If Knowledge
Is Sought Only For Selfish Purposes.

Civilization is based upon knowledge. Our control of the forces of nature through science is the most sensational development of modern times. The natural and physical sciences have developed with astounding results in the fields of chemistry, physics, biology, mechanical invention involving transportation and transmission of the spoken word, medicine, surgery and sanitation and in related fields. We have found, to our dismay, however, that unguided knowledge is dangerous. Knowledge is power both for good and evil. The motives of men must be right if mankind is to be exalted. Science and the arts alone will not accomplish this. So we need religion in education because religion after all is the code which teaches us our relationships and our responsibilities to God and mankind. Faith, the accompaniment of religion, is necessary if we are to go forward in any method or consistency. Without it we are in the dark.

All education, if it endures, will become a search for truth as sacred as any ministry. Colleges and all schools should be temples of learning where the enterprises of research and study are pursued seriously.

I have in my own mind little use for the person who looks upon knowledge as a vulture upon its carrion, as something to be used for personal gratification only. The high motive of service must be there, or education fails. In other words, education must be a spiritual process of it is to be made worth while. There can be no enduring happiness in human society upon any other basis. All history has shown the futility of selfishness. Whether we like it or not, and it seems bitter medicine at first, ultimate development of self depends upon our ignoring of self. The greatest among us is to be

Flock to Popular A. C.
Summer School

Registration at the Utah Agricultural Summer school threatens to break not only all records but all expectations. Already the number is well above the 400 mark, and will quite certainly exceed the 600 figure before the quarter closes.

The educational courses that were so deservedly popular last year under Professor Henry Peterson and Superintendent Orson Ryan, are attracting even more patronage this year under the same teachers. The fact that Prof. Terman of Stanford University will give educational lectures during the summer has accentuated the interest in this line. Smith-Hughes work is also attracting much attention and a great many students are registering for this; an indication of the practical results that are being derived from this work by the people of the state.

Reports from the department of Vocational Education indicate a large number of students taking work in that line, notwithstanding many of the men are out on the College farm, or doing placement work elsewhere. These Federal students are gradually accustoming themselves

THE THREE R's

REMEMBER the opening Social at the gymnasium next Friday evening at 8:30 o'clock. Good music, refreshments, dancing. Free to summer school students and partners.

REMEMBER that delightful trip next Saturday. One of the highly interesting and educative features of the summer school. Big crowd—delightful experience.

REMEMBER the Play Hour and keep yourself young by entering wholeheartedly into the games, at 1 o'clock, Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays.

PLAY HOUR IS ENCOURAGED FOR STUDENTS

Summer School Officials, Physical Directors, and National Playground Authorities Combine to Make Play Hour Attractive

The play hour, so entirely successful last summer at the College, will be held again, every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 1 o'clock. A great variety of games and dances will be enjoyed. Not only will this hour give needed recreation, but it will also give valuable experience to those interested in any form of group leadership, and will be of special interest to those taking Education 34.

The play hour will include both indoor and outdoor recreation, and will be under the direct supervision of Professor J. H. Jensen and Miss Carlson, whose ability to see that everyone has a good time is well known. And to add to our good fortune Mr. Dickenson and Miss Howe, both of the National Playground association, will be on hand to assist Professors Jensen and Carlson.

Do you play? No? Sure sign you are aging prematurely; then. More than that you are not even your best self physically or mentally, at school, or anywhere else, unless you play; and, of course, you are not your happiest self.

It is desired and expected that

Professor Terman

Prof. Terman Lectures to Summer School Students

Noted Expert on Mental Testing to Give Talks on Measuring Mind Powers.

Fortune surely is smiling upon the summer school students of the Agricultural College this year. Announcement that Prof. Lewis M. Terman of Leland Stanford University, will deliver a course of fifteen lectures has set teachers and students of the educational department, especially, all agog with interest. A great many from other departments, and even parents outside the school, are asking how they can get to hear these lectures. To satisfy these demands arrangements have been made by which those not registered in the school may attend the lectures without registering for other subjects on payment of a $5.00 fee.

Professor Terman has announced the subjects of his lectures as follows: Mental Tests and How They Work (four lectures); The Gifted Child (four lectures); The School Laggard (one lecture); School Grading by Mental Tests (one lecture); Practical Suggestions for a Testing Program (one lecture); Vocational Guidance (one lecture); The Social Significance of Individual Differences (one lecture); The Use and Abuse of Educational Tests (two lectures).

The modern trend of school inquiry and progress is in the direction of finding a scientific basis for measuring results in education. Professor Terman has a national reputation as being the leader in this great movement, as well as an authority in that other great modern movement, health reform for school children. His book, "The Hygiene of the School Child" is probably familiar to almost every teacher in Utah and the West. He is an associate editor of several educational journals, and the author of at least half a dozen texts on mental testing; his tests are widely used in the best schools.

"SAY HELLO"

STUDENT LIFE extends greetings and a cordial welcome to every student of the Summer Quarter—yes, we'll even include the faculty in this expression of good will, letting bygones be bygones for the present.

Many of the summer students are already acquainted at the College; they need no introduction. Some will be new to campus halls, classrooms, and teachers, and strangers to one another. But they, likewise, need no introduction. Their desire for knowledge, and especially for higher learning, is their recommendation and their passport. All they need to do is "Walk right up and say hello!"

The Argie spirit means, among other things, friendship, good will, helpfulness. The college aims to develop among its students the spirit of friendliness without familiarity, and of sociability without frivolity. Its professors know how to be dignified without being distant.

Students, the Agricultural College is yours for the summer quarter. Each of you can get as much intellectually from the $1,500,000 invested on the campus as if you owned it yourself. Student Life is your humble servant for the time being; come in and see us. We shall be glad to record your individual troubles; gladder to see your individual smiles; and gladdest to receive your individual contributions.

Students desiring to join the summer school chorus for recreation may do so without registering for the course. Those desiring credits for this course may register for 1 hour or for 1/2 hour.

FATHER A LAP AHEAD

Father recently gazed at his last dollar. "Money has wings and house-rent makes it fly," he said.

"Yes," said his fifteen-year-old son, "and some houses have wings, for I've seen many a house fly."

"You're smarter than your old dad, maybe, my son, but I always thought that no part of a house except the chimney flew!"—The Continent.

Commencement Echoes

Distinguished Speakers Dignify Closing Program—Many Graduates

The twenty-ninth annual commencement of the college has now become a part of the school's history—an interesting part. It was a fitting climax to one of the best years the school has ever known.

On Saturday, May 27, President A. H. Upham of the University of Idaho, delivered an address to the graduates on the subject, "The Gentleman and the Scholar." With rare eloquence and subtle humor President Upham drew a comparison between the scholar and the gentleman as they are coming to be distinguished.

The scholar is not infrequently referred to in a derisive way as the "highbrow," a word coined for the occasion. The gentleman likes to be "man about town," to be thought a good fellow. The latter is undoubtedly the more popular type among his fellows. The scholar is apt to be considered aloof, absent-minded, dilatory, a failure in practical affairs. The truth is, the speaker declared, the scholar should be more the man about town, and the man about town should be more the scholar. Our problem, "What will our graduates be?"

The doctor then defined scholarship as an intense interest in the ways and hows of affairs; an interest in ideas as well as things; a thorough mastery of details; and a suppression of self, with a delegation of one's powers to serve.

President A. W. Ivins for the Board of Trustees, declared that life is well marked by sign posts that point the way for us, but these guide posts are useless unless we can read their directions. School is to teach us the meaning of these sign posts, to prepare us for the battle of life as the training camp prepared the soldiers for the field of battle.

Maurice B. Linford was the honory student to represent the graduating class of 1922, which he did worthily in a carefully prepared paper on the "Relation of Plant Pathology to Human Welfare."

Two Master of Science degrees were awarded; seventy-eight Bachelor of Science degrees, and five army commissions.

The program given as a part of the exercises by the music department was high class in every respect.

The commencement exercises were brought to a close on Sunday, May 28, when Dr. James E. Talmage delivered an eloquent and forcible baccalaureate sermon before an audience of nearly

WHO'S WHO In Summer School

Miss Blanche Smith of Beaver is at the A. C. for the summer. She will teach at Bingham next year.

Lucius and Ernest Clark, brothers, both teaching in Idaho schools are Good Aggies for the summer quarter.

David Gourley, principal of the Pleasant Grove High School, and keenly interested in Smith-Hughes work, is anxious for work in his line that will give him graduate credits.

Miss Erma Bennion, a former student at the A. C. is doing work in summer school. She expects to be a "regular" next winter, and to graduate in the spring.

J. R. Hancey, B. Y. C. student body president of 1917-18, is attending summer school at the A. C.

Following a successful year's teaching in the Smithfield Junior High School, Cora Rose, a 1921 graduate of the U. A. C. is back with us again for summer school.

Miss Amanda Condit, a 1921 graduate, has been seen wand the summer after having taught a year in Bancroft.

Ardath Price, an Aggie graduate has been seen wandering around the halls—they just can't keep away.

J. Fish Smith, a 1916 graduate of the Agricultural College, now in charge of Smith-Hughes work at St. David, Arizona, is registered with us for the summer. Glad to see you back, old Fish.

Miss Twila Smart, from the U. of U. is attending summer school at the A. C.

Two thousand people in the College chapel, on the subject, "Success Through Failure," "Failures met and conquered mean victory that will last," declared the speaker. "Every failure should be used as a stepping stone leading upward to success."

PREST. PETERSON ADDRESSES ASSEMBLY

Students Elect Student Body Officers for Summer Session.

The first meeting of summer school students was held in the chapel at 1 o'clock Thursday. After the singing of America by the congregation, Prof. C. R. Johnson and Ray Garner sang the Friendship Duet. Dr. Linford, director of the summer school, made announcements of special features which would mark the work during the summer.

President E. G. Peterson gave a spirited talk on the "Business of Learning." "Scholasticism," he said, "has been stressed at the expense of learning. Knowledge is power, both for good and for evil. Undirected knowledge is dangerous; the motive is the determining feature. The test of an education is its utility."

"The fall of ancient nations is a result of violating spiritual and moral law. Animal conception of human behavior is the basis of present minds. Teachers should broadcast the potency of spiritual law. Christianization of conduct is now being championed by business organizations such as the Rotarians, the Saviors and others. The Savior's mission of service is real, not mythical. Use your learning for conquest of human brotherhood."

Following President Peterson's address the students of the summer quarter were organized into a Student Body organization, with the following officers: president, John S. Logan, vice-president, Velma Heywood; secretary, Frances Thomas; executive committee, Earl Thompson and David E. Heywood.

The traditional practice of a reunion of the graduates who have been out from the College just a decade, was further established when the class of 1912 met during commencement week. Their reunion was the most successful of the kind that has yet been held.

UTAH AGGIES WIN STATE TENNIS TITLE

Make Clean Sweep in The Title Tournament by Winning Five Straight.

Playing almost faultless tennis and displaying superiority over the fast university quintet, the Aggies won the collegiate championship of Utah in a decisive fashion by winning five straight matches from the Crimson, two doubles and three singles. Every match was hotly contested and replete with brilliant tennis, the play at times becoming phenomenal. The Aggies proved superior in every department, and well deserve the title of champions.

At the end of the regular schedule the Aggies and "U" were tied, each having won 3 matches and lost 1, so the tie-off was played on neutral courts. The title tournament was played on the courts of the Ogden Tennis club on Decoration Day.

The "U" crack doubles team, Officer and Loynd, met its first defeat of the season at the hands of Captain Bill Merrill and Mose Rich, three out of four sets; 6-2, 4-4, 8-6, 6-2. The Aggie pair exhibited superior team-work and during the match made good a number of apparently impossible returns.

Cy Hammond and Glenn Lovelless won from Gallagher and Whitney of the "U" in a thrilling 6-set battle. The Blue and White won the first set with comparative ease, 6-3, then lost the next, 3-6. They then annexed the third set, 6-3, and the Crimson evened things by taking the fourth, 5-7, after a hard fight.

In the final set the Crimson team started out in flashy style and soon had their opponents apparently hopelessly beaten. With a score of 5-2 and point set for Utah, the Aggies staged a phenomenal rally and won the set by taking straight games. This was perhaps the most remarkable work of the day, and too much credit cannot be given the Aggie pair for the manner in which they kept fighting under odds.

In the regular singles Bert Law won 3 out of 5 sets from Bob Goodell of the "U", 6-4, 6-4, 2-6, 1-6, 6-0. Law started out in fine style and looked to be easy winner, but Goodell took the third and fourth sets, making it two all. Law was easy winner in the final, making it a love set.

Mose Rich took two straight from Captain Bob Officer 6-4, 9-7. This match was extremely hard fought. Officer had point set on Rich several times, but with his characteristic fight, Mose pulled through for a victory.

Cy Hammond made the day perfect for the Aggies by trimming Gallagher 3-6, 6-4, 6-3. This match featured some brilliant tennis in which Cy had the better of the argument.

This is the first year the Utah colleges have had 5-man tennis teams, but it has proved so successful that it will undoubtedly be continued. Tennis Coach C. R. Johnson is well pleased with the work of the Blue and White team this year, and expects to keep the Aggies in the running in future years.

SCHEDULE OF SUMMER HIKES

For this summer quarter of the Agricultural College the following special trips, planned both for their recreational and for their educational value have been arranged.

June 10—Investigation of Utah's Insect Pests.

June 17—The Geology of Logan Canyon.

June 24—Fishing Excursion—A day of fun in Logan Canyon. Expert fisherman guides.

A visit to the large State Fish Hatchery. A climb to the top of Mount Logan, for those who desire to make the trip.

July 1—Early morning bird hike.

July 8—Hike to discover unique trees, shrubs and flowers of Logan Canyon.

July 15—Dragons that live in the water.

Aug. 5—A visit to the sites of various Alpine glaciers of the Ice Age.

SATURDAY'S OUTING

Dr. Hawley will be in charge of the first of the special hikes listed as a part of the summer school program.

A first hand study of some of Utah's insect pests will occupy the forenoon of this coming Saturday. All those interested will meet in front of the Main Building at 8 o'clock, sharp.

No lunches will be necessary but a little snake bite remedy might be carried in the hip pocket—for bee stings.
